INDEX TO VOLUME CXIX.

Abbott, S. W. Some historical and statistical facts concerning the use of arsenic as a poison, 435.

Abdominal Surgery. A case of perforating wound of the abdomen inflicted by an ox's horn, Gratch, N. S., 252; abdominal surgery at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Warren, J. C., and Richardson, M. H., 472; two cases of laparotomy for extra-uterine pregnancy, 549, 551; résumé of two and one-half years' experience in abdominal surgery, Irish, J. C., 621.

Abortion. Durant, C. E., 232.

Actinomycosis. Eve, F., 165.

Adams, Z. B., Bradford, E. H., and Withington, C. F. Report on physical culture in schools, 179.

Adenoid Growths. On thoracic deformity produced by adenoid growths in upper pharynx, Loewenberg, B., 46.

Adler, I. Some remarks on akromeglia, 507.

Aged. Few drugs in treating the aged, 566.

Agnew, D. H. The relation of social life to surgical disease, 274.

Aitken, W. Address on pathology, 206.

Akromeglia. Some remarks on akromeglia, Adler, I., 507.

Albuminuria. The absolute and relative value of albumen and casts, and of renal inadequacy in the diagnosis and prognosis of diseases of the kidney, Edes, R. T., 361; the relation of albuminuria to life insurance, Tyson, J., 362; notes on albuminuria, Bisbee, A. B., 409.

Alexander's operation. The value of Alexander's operation for shortening the round ligaments estimated from the results of twenty-three cases, 556.

Allbut, C. Classification of disease by means of comparative nosology, 206.

Allen, C. J. Acute yellow atrophy of the liver, 408.

Anæmia. The pathology of pernicious anæmia, Hunter, W., 417.

Anæsthesia. Observations on the time and amount of ether required to produce anæsthesia, Lovett, R. W., 549.

Anatomy. Demonstration of a model of frozen sections of the arm, with remarks on this method of teaching anatomy, 245, 285; recent progress in anatomy, Dwight, T., 322; valves in the veins of the human intestines, Bryant, W. S., 400.

Animal Magnetism. Six cases of treatment with animal magnetism, Mason, O., 484.

Annus Medicus MDCCCLXXXVIII., 637.

Anthrarobin, Bronson, E. B., 337.

Antipyrine as an analgesic, Fiske, E. L., 34; antipyrine in seasickness, Fisk, S. A., 238; antipyrine in seasickness, Stephenson, F. B., 371; antipyrine as an analgesic, Egan, P. R., 466.

Antisepsis in typhoid, 165.

Apostoli. A visit to the clinique of Dr. Apostoli of Paris, Campbell, W. M., 262.

Appendicitis. Two cases of appendicitis, one fatal, Stedman, C. E., 241; a case of appendicitis, with autopsy, Warner, E., 404; a case of appendicitis in a child, Waitman, R., 551, 553.

Argyrism. A case of argyrism, Ivanikoff, 417.

Arloing. On the local and general means capable of arresting the extension of experimental tuberculosis, 184.

Army Medical Examination, 140, 142; army medical corps, 514.

Arsenic. On motor paralysis and other symptoms of poisoning from medicinal doses of arsenic, Putnam, J. J., 1, 10; arsenic poisoning through the maternal milk, Brouardel, 70; some historical and statistical facts concerning the use of arsenic as a poison, Abbott, S. W., 435; the chemistry of arsenic, Hills, W. B., 435.

Ashhurst, J., Jr. A contribution to the study of excisions of the larger joints, 312.

Athetosis. A case of athetosis, Pengra, C. P., 80, 81.

Atkinson, I. E. Address before American Dermatological Association, 335.

Babes. The bacterial associations of the tubercle bacillus, 184.

Bailey, A. C. The anatomy, physiology, and therapeutics of the pharynx, 410.

Baker, H. B. Classification of diseases, 559.

Baker, W. E. A case of chronic Bright's disease, 572.

Balzer, M. F., and Klumpke, A. The elimination of mercury, 95.

Bangs, L. B. Clinical observations of diseases of the testicles, 332.

Baumgarten, G. Disturbances to the heart rhythm, with reference to their causation and their value in diagnosis, 363.

Bayet. Induction of premature labor, 542.

Beach, H. H. A. A case of strangulated hernia, 251; two cases of carbuncle, 251; ovarian cyst, 253; tumor of the breast, 253.

Bibliography. Aitken, W., on the animal alkaloids, the ptomaines, leucomaines, and extractives in their pathological relations, 636; Allen, N., physical development, or the laws governing the human system, 185; Ball, C. B., the rectum and anus, their diseases and treatment, 412; Barker, A. E. J., a short manual of surgical operations, 412; Bell, J., a manual of the operations of surgery, for the use of senior students, house surgeons, and junior practitioners, 287; Boston City Hospital, annual report for 1887, 18; Boyd, S., Druitt's surgeon's vade mecum: a manual of modern surgery, 40; Browne, L., the throat and its diseases, including associated affections of the nose and ear, 137; Brubaker, A. P., Quiz compends, No. 4; a compend of human physiology, 40; Bruck, L., guide to the health resorts in Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand, 41; Brunett, C., the massage case, 114; Brunton, T. L., a text-book of pharmacology, therapeutics and materia medica, 610; Bryant, J. D., manual of operative surgery, 314; Butlin, H. T., on the operative surgery of malignant disease, 232; Carcousse, M., Hygiène Israélite, 560; Christopher, W. S., chemical experiments for medical students, 612; Disinfection and disinfectants: their application and use in the prevention and treatment of disease, and in public and private sanitation, 411; Garmany, J. J., operative surgery on the cadaver, 287; Garland, G. M., the modern treatment of pleurisy and pneumonia, 40; Hamilton, A. McL., a manual of medical jurisprudence, with special reference to diseases and injuries of the nervous system, 18; Hartridge, G., the refraction of the eye, 41; Heath, C., lectures on certain diseases of the jaws, 412; Hewitt, G., the pathology, diagnosis, and treatment of the diseases of women, 40; Hirst, B. C., a system of obstetrics by American authors, 611; Holland, J. W., the urine and the common poisons, 612; Hornitz, O., a compend of surgery for physicians and students, 412; the index catalogue of the library of the Surgeon-general's office, number ix., 368; Jacobs, M. P., essays on hysteria, brain tumor, and some other cases of nervous disease, 43; Jenks, E. W., the disorders of menstruation, 389; Keating, J. M., and Edwards, W. A., diseases of the heart and circulation in infancy and adolescence, 17; Leuf, A. H. P., hygiene for base-ball players, 389; Livers, H. H. N., a practical text-book of the diseases of women; Massachusetts health report, 66; Medical News visiting list, 537; Meyer, E., a practical treatise on diseases of the eye, 41; Morrow, P. A., atlas of venereal and skin diseases, 17; Nettleship, E., the student's guide to diseases of the eye, 41; Physicians' visiting list for 1889, 612; Prescott, A. B., organic analysis: a manual of the descriptive and analytical chemistry of certain carbon compounds in common use, 39; Rapney, A. L., the applied anatomy of the nervous system, 113; Rouland, E., de l'epilepsie Jacksonienne, 437; Shoemaker, J. V., a practical treatise on diseases of the skin, 136; Stewart, J. S., physicians' and students' ready reference series: obstetric synopsis, 560; Stillman, C. F., the life insurance examiner, 559; Tyson, J., a guide to the practical examination of the urine, 41; Van Nüys chemical analysis of healthy and diseased urine, qualitative and quantitative, 41; Vaughan, V. C., and Novy, F. G., ptomaines and leucomaines, or the pure factive and physiological alkaloids, 636; Walshaw, W. J., surgery; its theory and practice, 161; Waxham, F. E., intubation of the larynx, 65; Wilde, B. G., and Gage, S. H., anatomical technology as applied to the domestic cat, 537; Williams, W. R., the principles of cancer and tumor formation, 610; Witthaus, R. A., essentials of chemistry and toxicology for the use of students in medicine, 636; Wood and Bache, the dispensatory of the United States of America, 560; Wyeth, J. A., a text-book on surgery, general, operative, and mechanical, 257.

Bile. Experimental researches relative to the action of medicaments on the biliary secretion, and the elimination by this secretion, 20.

Billings, J. S. On medical museums, with special reference to the army medical museum at Washington, 265.

Biography. Arnold, J. W. S., 442; Bartlett, F. D., 544; Bennett, A. W., 96; Cheesman, T. M., 69; Cochrane, J., 264; Dunn, W. A., 440; Fothergill, J. M., 72; Frauenburg, B., 260; Garnett, A. T. P., 72; Gunter, L. D., 544; Guthrie, S., 21; Hurd, Y. G., 320; Jones, R. K., 566; Klinghammer, W. J., 348; Kneeland, S., 372; Lodge, G. H., 644; Nichols, J. R., 232; Quackenbos, H. T., 216; Raphael, H., 164; Reinfelder, M. J., 566; Sabin, R. H., 590; Sabine, T. T., 216; Salmi, T. T., 441; Sands, H. B., 515, 542; Sargent, J., 396, 512; Shute, C. B., 544; Stone, H. O., 216; Thatton, W. M., 370; Townshend, G. D., 240; Tuck, L. W., 419, 420; Walton, E. W., 370; Warrington, J., 589.

Birdsall, W. R. Report of a case of tumor treated by hypnotic suggestion, 484.

Bisbee, A. B. Notes on albuminuria, 409.

Blake, C. J. A new form of clinical tuning fork, 604, 606.

Blake, J. G. Intra-uterine fœtal deformities, 498, 504; neurosis of the bladder, 505.

Blodgett, A. N. Unusual susceptibility to sedative remedies, 201.

Boardman, W. E. Report of cases confined at the Boston Lying-in Hospital during the three months, January 1 to April 1, 1888, 196, 202.

Bohne, W. Handbook for young and old opticians, 41.

Bolles, W. P. Dermoid cyst, 605.

Bombaugh, C. C. The multiplication of useless drugs, 537.

Bone. A contribution to the study of bone repair, Miller, J. S., 158.

Booker, W. D. A study of the micro-organisms in the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, 16.

Boston Dispensary, 370.

Boston Lying-in Hospital. Reports of cases confined, Boardman, W. E., 196, 202.

Bowditch, H. I. Tolerance and intolerance in medicine; codes of ethics, 536.

Bowen, J. T. Two forms of skin tuberculosis, 151.

Boynton, H. Hysteria, 411.

Bradford, E. H. Osteo-chondro-sarcoma of the leg, 108; two cases of incision into the hip-joint, with observations as to "distraction" in hip-disease, 147, 155; a case of laparotomy, 387.
Bradford, E. H., and Lovett, R. W. Recent progress in orthopedic surgery, 475.
Bradford, J. R. On the value of salt in the treatment of acute rheumatism, 67.
Brain. Three successful cases of cerebral surgery, Keene, W. W., 305; the topography of the brain, 162; brain surgery, MacEwen, W., 205; subdural abscess of the brain, Stokes, W., 618.
Breast. Tumor of the breast, 253; excision of the breast for cancer, Hodges, R. M., 517, 530
Breneman, an unusually rare case of plural births, 541.
Brigham, L. M. A report of a case of Tait's operation for removal of ovaries, 411.
Bright's Disease, a case of chronic, Baker, W. E., 572.
Bronson, E. B. Anthrarobin, 337.
Brouardel. Arsenic poisoning through the maternal milk, 70.
Brown, D. The arrest of secretions in the eruptive fevers, 569.
Bryant, W. S. Valves in the veins of the human intestines, 400.
Bryson, J. P., and Burnett, E. C. Clinical observations on gonorrhœa, with special reference to etiology, duration, and treatment, 331.
Buck, A. H. Reflex influences in the production of naso-pharyngeal catarrh, 87; a contribution to the anatomy of the elephant's ear, 111.
Bulkley, L. D. Dermatitis plantaris and palmaris, 343; the relations between the general practitioner and the consultant or specialist, 536.
Bull, C. S. A contribution to the treatment of membranous opacities in the vitreous, 88.
Bull, W. T. The physical management of typhlitis and perityphlitis, 309.
Bullard, W. N. Observations on the steadiness of the hand and on static equilibrium, 595.
Buller, T. A case of pulsating exophthalmus cured by ligature of the common carotid artery, 88.
Bulletins. An illustration of medical bulletins, 140.
Bundy, F. E. One, possibly two, cases of Graves's disease, 27, 36.
Burnett, C. H. A case of aural vertigo (Meniere's disease) relieved by excision of the membrana tympani and malleus, 86.
Burnett, S. M. An analysis of 576 cases of the refraction of healthy human cornea, examined with the ophthalmometer of Javal and Schidz, 89; models exhibiting refraction by cylinders, 111.
Burrell, H. L. Cases illustrating the use of compression after the method of Mr. Gamgee, 528; a few points in Macewen's operation for the radical cure of hernia, 545, 554.
Burrell, H. L., and Cushing, H. W. Report on progress in surgery, 246, 283.
Burt, F. L. Uterine hæmorrhages, 580.
Bustles. Bustles, 490; the bustle, 514.
Cabot, A. T. Case of laparotomy for tubercular peritonitis, 121.
Cænogenesis. Gegenbauer, 185.
Campbell, E. R. What constitutes irregular practice? 410.
Campbell, W. M. A visit to the clinique of Dr. Apostoli of Paris, 262.
Capron, E. P. A case of glioma, 110.
Carbuncle. Two cases of carbuncle, Beach, H. H. A., 251.
Cascara sagrada in rheumatism, Goodwin, H. T., 22.
Cerebro-spinal meningitis. Endemic cerebro-spinal meningitis, Townsend, C. W., 52; a case of cerebro-spinal meningitis, Jacobs, H. B., 57; two cases of spinal meningitis, Jackson, H., 58; a case of cerebro-spinal meningitis of the pneumonic type with painful joints, and worms, Mason, A. L., 62; two cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis, Grass, G. G., 131.
Channing, W. Massachusetts lunacy laws, 97, 105; "freedom cure for insanity," 239.
Chantemesse and Wisal. The persistence of the germs of tuberculosis in river water, 183.
Cheever, D. W. Shock, 293, 313.
Children. Experiment studies on some points concerning the causation and treatment of the summer diarrhœa of infants, Vaughan, V. C., 14; a study of the micro-organisms in the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Booker, W. D., 16; microscopic examination of the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Holt, L. E., 16; practical hints about children, 44; a case of noma, Rotch, T. M., 35; inquiry into the influence of the temperature of the air on the death of infants from diarrhœal diseases; the bacteria of the alimentary canal, especially in the diarrhœas of infancy, Jeffries, J. A., 217; apparatus for the sterilization of infant food, Rotch, T. M., 286; litholapaxy in male children, Keegan, D. F., 333; some post-hemiplegic disturbances of motion in children, Knapp, P. C., 495; case of infantile hemiplegia with marked spastic contracture and slight athetoid movements in the fingers, Smith, J. L., 509; report on diseases of children, Rotch, T. M., 573, 603; acute lobar pneumonia in children, Townsend, C. W., 631.
Children's Hospital. The new out-patient building of the Boston Children's Hospital, 392.
Chinese "nervelessness," 318.
Chismore, G. On the effects of rapid changes of altitude in an advanced case of interstitial nephritis, 335.
Cholagogues, 439.
Cholera. Pettenkofer and cholera, 44.
Circulatory System. Ectocardia cured by a plastic operation, Lanuelongue, 44; penetration of the heart by a slate pencil, Rotch, T. M., 63; hypertension of the arteries; therapeutic indications, 66, 91; report on progress in thoracic disease, Shattuck, F. C., 226; simultaneous ligature of the right carotid and subclavian arteries for aneurism of the innominate, Packard, J. H., 311; the arrest of hæmorrhage from wounds in the palm of the hand, Levis, R. J., 317; the cardiac changes in chronic Bright's disease, Loomis, A. L., 562; the treatment of valvular affections of the heart, DaCosta, 363; disturbances of the heart rhythm, with reference to their causation and their value in diagnosis, Baumgarten, G., 363; valves in the veins of the human intestines, Bryant, W. S., 400; the treatment of valvular diseases of the heart, 461; experience with strophanthus in heart disease, Devine, W., 479; sudden heart failure in diphtheria: its pathology and treatment, Smith, J. L., 480.
Clarke, M. D. Therapeutic nihilism, 199.
Classification. Classification of diseases, Baker, H. B., 559.
Classification of disease by means of comparative nosology, Allbut, C., 206.
Clothing. Woollen or cotton underclothing, 619.
Coe, H. C. Grouped cells in ascitic fluid as diagnostic of malignant disease of the peritonæum, 261.
Coley, W. B. Treatment of penetrating shot-wounds of the abdomen, 373.
Color-blindness. Description of a series of tests for the detection and determination of subnormal color-perception (color-blindness) designed for use in railway service, Oliver, C. A., 109.
Cold. The use of cold in diarrhœa of children during the hot weather, 164.
Colporrhaphy. New form of posterior colporrhaphy, Kellogg, J. H., 321.
Compression. Cases illustrating the use of compression, after the method of Mr. Gamgee, Burrell, H. L., 528.
Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, 214.
Congress for the study of Tuberculosis, 182.
Connor, L. Report of standing committee on the requirements for preliminary education in the various medical colleges of the United States and Canada, 565.
Constipation. Postural treatment of constipation, Whitney, J. O., 23; postural treatment of constipation, 178.
Consumption. The treatment of consumption by residence at high altitudes, 488.
Corey. The therapeutic value of hypnotism, 484.
Cornil. On the transmission of tuberculous infection by the mucous membranes, 183.
Cornil and Toupet. On pseudo-tuberculosis in men and animals 184.
Corrosive Sublimate. The value of corrosive sublimate as a practical disinfectant, Hills, W. B., 169.
Councilman, W. T. Some further investigations on the malarial germ of Lavaran, 436.
Cream Pie. Food poisoning, Crocker, S. E., 230.
Creoline. Otis, E. O., 132.
Crime. The proper treatment of crime and criminals; ought the criminal to be dealt with as a lunatic? 538.
Crocker, S. E. Food poisoning, 230.
Croup. The comparative merits of tracheotomy and intubation in the treatment of croup, Gay, G. W., 311, 349.
Cushing, E. W. Changes in the uterine mucous membrane, 577.
Cushing, H. W. An improved method for the radical cure of femoral hernia, 546.
Cutaneous System. Report on progress in dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 6; a case of noma, Rotch, T. M., 35; two forms of skin tuberculosis, Baren, J. T., 151; address before American Dermatological Association, Atkinson, G. E., 335; the electrolytic decomposition of organic tissues, Rohe, G. H., 336; the value of salicylic acid in dermatology, Heitzmann, C., 336; kraurosis of the vulva, Heitzmann, C., 343; anthrarobin, Bronson, E. B., 337; personal observations on skin diseases in the negro, Morison, R. B., 338; the relations of papilloma to syphilis and tuberculosis of the skin, Morrow, P. A., 339; a report upon three cases of dermatitis herpetiformis, Graham, J. E., 339; dermatitis herpetiformis, with notes of three cases, Stelwagon, H. W., 340; molluscum contagiosum, Stelwagon, H. W., 341; note of a case of filaria medinensis, Van Heringen, A., 340; note relative to the condyloma from lesions induced by ingestion of some of the iodine compounds, Hyde, J. N., 340; the non-identity of lichen planus and lichen ruber, Fox, G. H., 342; the question of relationship between lichen ruber (Hebra) and lichen planus (Wilson), Robinson, A. B., 342; lichen ruber, as observed in America, and its differentiation from lichen planus, Taylor, R. W., 342; dermatitis tuberosa, Taylor, R. W., 343; dermatitis plantaris and palmaris, Bulkley, L. D., 343; recent progress in dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 500.
Cutler, E. G. Fæcal accumulation, 430, 434.
DaCosta. The treatment of valvular affections of the heart, 363; spasm of the bronchial tubes, 628.
Dana, C. L. The cortical localization of cutaneous sensations, 329.
Dandridge, N. P. Nerve stretching, 312.
Davenport, B. F. Report on food and drugs: their sophistication and analyses, 105; the detection of morphine in the urine as a means of diagnosis, 124.
Davenport, F. H. Report of progress in gynecology, 128; uterine displacements and their influence on the general nervous system, 172; some gynecological cases treated by the faradic current, 397, 405.
De Brun. Pulmonary tuberculosis in Styria, 183.
Delirium Tremens. The treatment of delirium tremens by strychnine, 510.
Dentistry. Progress in dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 59.
Dercum, F. X. A subcutaneous connective tissue dystrophy of the arms and back, associated with symptoms resembling myxœdema, 329.
Dermatology. Recent progress in dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 6., 500.
Dermoid cyst, Bolles, W. P., 605.
D'Espine. The bacillus of diphtheria, 514.
Deunne. Tuberculosis transmitted by the milk of a phthisical cow, 69.
Deutsch-medizinische-schrift-sucht, or the German Medical-Journal habit, Hawley, J. S., 166.
Devine, W. Experience with strophanthus in heart disease, 479.
Diabetes. Forms of diabetes mellitus, Seegen, 563.
Diagnosis. A matter of diagnosis, 259.
Diarrhœa. Experimental studies on some points concerning the causation and treatment of the summer diarrhœa of infants, Vaughan, V. C., 14; a study of the micro-organisms in the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Booker, W. D., 16; microscopic examination of the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Holt, L. E., 16; treatment of chronic diarrhœa, 43; inquiry into the influence of the temperature of the air on the death of infants from diarrhœal diseases, Meinert, 73; the use of cold in diarrhœas of children during the hot weather, 164; the bacteria of the alimentary canal, especially in the diarrhœas of infancy, Jeffries, J. A., 217.

Digestive system. Experimental studies on some points concerning the causation and treatment of the summer diarrhœa of infants, Vaughan, V. C., 14; a study of the micro-organisms in the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Booker, W. D., 16; microscopic examination of the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Holt, L. E., 16; experimental researches relative to the action of medicaments on the biliary secretion and the elimination by this secretion, 20; postural treatment of constipation, Whitney, J. O., 23; visceral disease and insanity, 42; treatment of chronic diarrhœa, 43; progress in dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 59; inquiry into the influence of the temperature of the air on the death of infants from diarrhœal diseases, Meinert, 73; the surgical treatment of intestinal obstruction, 114; cases of laparotomy for tubercular peritonitis, Cabot, A. T., 121; clinical notes of a case of perityphlitis: laparotomy thirty-two hours after the beginning of the attack, Wyman, S. E., 126; the use of cold in diarrhœas of children during the hot weather, 164; foreign bodies in the rectum, Goodsall, D. H., 166; postural treatment of constipation, Williams, E. T., 178; saccharine considered as an antiseptic of the digestic passages, 186; the bacteria of the alimentary canal, especially in the diarrhœas of infancy, Jeffries, J. A., 217; two cases of appendicitis, one fatal, Stedman, C. E., 241; a case of strangulated hernia, Beach, H. H. A., 251; peritonitis from perforating ulcer of the stomach, Fitz, R. H., 253; grouped cells in ascitic fluid as diagnostic of malignant disease of the peritonæum, 261; the medical relations of acute intestinal obstruction, Fitz, R. H., 295; the surgical treatment of acute intestinal obstruction, Senn, 295; the surgical treatment of typhlitis and perityphlitis, Ball, W. T., 309; the propriety of surgical interference in perforating typhoid ulcer, Mears, J. E., 310; a case of volvulus, Warren, J. C., 380; valves in the veins of the human intestines, Bryant, W. S., 400; a case of appendicitis, with autopsy, Warner, E., 404; acute yellow atrophy of the liver, Allen, C. J., 408; fæcal accumulation, Cutler, E. G., 430, 434; a case of ulcerative perforation of the transverse colon: laparotomy twelve hours later; death on the seventh day from septic peritonitis caused by fæcal extravasation, Richardson, M. H., 432, 435; concerning cholagogues, 439; on the treatment of intestinal occlusion by electricity, 439; the diagnosis and medical treatment of acute intestinal obstruction, Fitz, R. H., 445, 469, 493, 523; tubercular peritonitis, apparently cured by laparotomy, Morrill, F. G., and Bradford, E. H., 534; a case of appendicitis in a child, Whitman, R., 551, 553; movements of the stomach, 586; a case of intestinal obstruction, Richardson, M. H., 629, 633.

Diphtheria. The treatment of diphtheria, 369; its history, cause, and prevention, Hamilton, J. B., 411; sudden heart failure in diphtheria: its pathology and treatment, Smith, J. L., 480; the bacillus of diphtheria, D'Espine, 514.

Disinfection. Methods of disinfection as tested at the quarantine station below New Orleans, Kinyoun, J. J., 69; the value of corrosive sublimate as a practical disinfectant, Hills, W. B., 169.

Dislocation of hip of eleven months' standing: reduction by manipulation, Thorndike, W. H., 229.

Doctor at home, 438.

Doran, A. Ovariotomy in age, 118.

Doty, D. Description of Pullman, Ill., 586.

Draper, W. H. Address before Association of American Physicians, 359.

Drowning. A disputed case of accidental drowning, Winsor, F., 65.

Drugs. Report on food and drugs, Davenport, B. F., 103.

Dunsmore, G. Sepsis in obstetrics, 409.

Durant, C. E. Abortion, 232.

Duret. Glandular tuberculosis, 184.

Dwight, T. Demonstration of a model of frozen sections of the arm, with remarks on this method of teaching anatomy, 245, 285; recent progress in anatomy, 322.

Ear. A case of aural vertigo (Meniere's disease) relieved by excision of the membrana tympani and malleus, Barnett, C. H., 86; reflex influences in the production of nasopharyngeal catarrh, Buck, H., 87; hallucinations of hearing, Kite, J. A., 105; a contribution to the anatomy of the elephant's ear, Buck, A. H., 111; a case of polypoid angioma of the ear, Richards, H., 112; a case of false drum membrane, 112; the flexible catheter as a drainage-tube, with cases, 112; three cases of transient bilateral horizontal nystagmus in connection with purulent inflammation of the middle ear, Kipp, C. J., 113; an improved aural snare, Tansley, J. O., 113; othæmatoma or insane ear, Field, M. D., 583; a new form of clinical tuning fork, Blake, C. J., 604, 605; three casts of the membrana tympani, Morse, H. L., 605; treatment in cases where symptoms point to inflammation in the mastoid antrum and mastoid cells, Morse, H. L., 593, 605.

Edes, R. T. Dinner to foreign guests of the Congress of Physicians and Surgeons, 191; the relation of renal diseases to diseases of the nervous system, 328; the absolute and relative value of albumen and casts, and of renal inadequacy in the diagnosis and prognosis of diseases of the kidney, 361.

Editorials. Annual report of the Boston City Hospital for 1887, 18; history of a medicament, 19; experimental research relative to action of medicaments on the biliary secretion and the elimination by this secretion, 20; visceral disease and insanity, 42; treatment of chronic diarrhœa, 43; the Massachusetts Health Report, 66; hypertension of the arteries: therapeutic indications, i, 66; on the value of salt in the treatment of acute rheumatism, 67; the fourth year at the Harvard Medical School, 91; hypertension of the arteries: therapeutic indications, ii, 91; the surgical treatment of intestinal obstruction, 114; the mind-cure and faith-cure delusion, 116; leprosy in the Sandwich Islands, 117; sanitation sociologically considered, 138; an illustration of medical bulletins, 140; army medical examination, 140; the topography of the brain, 162; effect of ergot on the involution of the uterus, 163; the Yale Thermometric Bureau, 163; Gegenbauer on cænogenesis, 185; saccharine considered as an antiseptic of the digestive passages, 186; the scientific spirit of the age, 210; the breeding of paupers and criminals, 211; density of population as a social and sanitary question, 233; yellow fever in Florida, 235; Servia's sanitary system, 257; the Association of Genito-urinary Surgeons, 258; a matter of diagnosis, 259; the first triennial congress of American physicians and surgeons, 288; yellow fever, South and North, 288; the German treatment of obesity, 290; the congress of American physicians and surgeons, 314; on the employment of inhalatiqns in diseases of the bronchi and of the lungs, 344; shorthand as an aid to scientific study, 344; human beings as subjects of experimentation, 345; the index catalogue of the library of the Surgeon-General's office, number ix., 368; the treatment of diphtheria, 369; the President's pension vetoes, 390; on the treatment of hæmorrhages by revulsion over the hepatic region, 391; therapeutics as judged by figures, 413; intubation in Germany, 415; the doctor at home, 438; concerning cholagogues, 439; on the treatment of intestinal occlusion by electricity, 439; women and the study of medicine, 440; the treatment of valvular diseases of the heart, 461; the case of the late Emperor Frederick of Germany, 463; treatment of incontinence of urine by Rhus aromatica, 464; the mortality of pneumonia, 485; make way for liberty, 487; the treatment of consumption by residence at high altitudes, 488; on the diuretic action of strophanthus, 488; the treatment of delirium tremens by strychnine, 510; medical inspection of the Massachusetts Insane, 510; on special service, 511; improved provision for the insane at Providence, R. I., 511; the spread of tuberculosis, 512; the proper treatment of crime and criminals; ought the criminal to be dealt with as a lunatic? 538; puerperal fever a preventable disease, 539; pneumonia mortality in Massachusetts almshouses, 540; the registration of mortality and vital statistics, 561; Seegen on the forms of diabetes mellitus, 563; yellow fever on the cruiser Boston, 564; movements of the stomach, 586; secondary dementia, 587; a side light upon the plague of the sixteenth century, 612; gum chewing, 614; the death penalty by electricity, 615; annus medicus MDCCCLXXXVIII, 637; necrology of the Massachusetts Medical Society, 640.

Edson, C. The poison of typhoid fever, 609.

Education. The fourth year at the Harvard Medical School, 91; laboratories and museums of hygiene for teaching purposes, Proust, 94; the requirements for preliminary education in the various medical colleges of the United States and Canada, Connor, L., 505; the famous historic masters of the healing art were men of classical education, Fisher, G. J., 535; the necessity for post-graduation instruction in the present state of American medical education, Lee, C. C., 536; which is the liberal school? McIntire, C., 536; the influence of the work of the Illinois Medical Practice Act upon medical education, Johnson, H. A., 537.

Egan, P. R. Antipyrine as an analgesic, 466.

Electricity. Katalytic action of electricity; its practical value in rheumatic affections, Walton, G. L., 101; the curability of urethral stricture by electricity, Keyes, E. L., 332; the electrolytic decomposition of organic tissues, Rohé, G. H., 336; some gynecological cases treated by the faradic current, Davenport, F. H., 397, 405; on the treatment of intestinal occlusion by electricity, 439; the death penalty by electricity, 615.

Elephant. A contribution to the anatomy of the elephant's ear, Buck, A. H., 111.

Emerson, J. B. The flexible catheter as a drainage-tube, with cases 112.

Empyema. A new form for dressing in cases of empyema, Richardson, M. H., 388; permanent opening for empyema, Otis, E. O., 405.

Epilepsy. On a clinical report of cases of epilepsy following cerebral hemiplegia, Fisher, E. D., 3-7.

Eruptive Fevers. The arrest of secretions in the eruptive fevers, Brown, D., 509.

Ether. Observations of the time and amount of ether required to produce anæsthesia, Lovett, R. W., 549.

Eve, F. Eve on actinomycosis, 165.

Excisions. A contribution to the study of excisions of the larger joints, Ashhurst, J., Jr., 302.

Exophthalmic Goitre. One, possibly two, cases of Graves's disease, Bundy, F. E., 27, 36.

Eye. A contribution to the treatment of membranous opacities in the vitreous, Bull, C. S., 88; a case of pulsating exophthalmus cured by ligation of the common carotid artery, Baller, F., 88; pulsating exophthalmus, Kipp, C. J., 89; an analysis of 576 cases of the refraction of healthy human cornæ examined with the ophthalmometer of Javal & Schidtz, Barnett, S. M., 89; œdema of the choroid and retina, Johnson, E., 90; symptomatic myopia, Mittendorf, W. F., 90; hysterical blindness in the male, with a report of three cases, Moore, W. O., 109; description of a series of tests for the detection and determination of sub-normal color perception (color blindness), designed for railway service, Oliver, C. A., 109; case of embolism of the central retinal artery, Oliver, C. A., 109; a case of double congenital iridiremia in a child whose mother exhibited a congenital coloboma of each iris, Theobald, S., 109; puncture of the retina for detachment, Sutphen, T. Y., 110; a case of glioma, Capron, E. P., 110; models exhibiting refraction by cylinders, Burnett, S. M., 111; designation of prisms by their refractive power, Jackson, E., 111; extraction of a partially absorbed calcareous lens, Webster, D., 111; recent progress in ophthalmology, Standish, M., 152; ophthalmoplegia externa, Wadsworth, O. F., 207; recent progress in ophthalmology, Standish, M., 625; headaches and other nervous symptoms caused by functional anomalies of the eye, Oppenheimer, H. S., 634.

Fenwick, E. H. Notes upon the prognosis of organic stricture of the urethra, 332.

Fever. Continued and remittent fevers, 21.

Field, M. D. Othæmatoma or insane ear, 583.

Filaria. The history of the filaria sanguinis hominis, Mastin, W. M., 332; note of a case of filaria medinensis, Van Harlingen, A., 340.

Fisher, E. D. On a clinical report of cases of epilepsy following cerebral hemiplegia, 327.

Fisher, G. J. The famous historic masters of the healing art were men of classical education, 535.

Bradford, E. H. Osteo-chondro-sarcoma of the leg, 108; two cases of incision into the hip-joint, with observations as to "distraction" in hip-disease, 147, 155; a case of laparotomy, 387.
Bradford, E. H., and Lovett, R. W. Recent progress in orthopedic surgery, 475.
Bradford, J. R. On the value of salt in the treatment of acute rheumatism, 67.
Brain. Three successful cases of cerebral surgery, Keene, W. W., 305; the topography of the brain, 162; brain surgery, MacEwen, W., 205; subdural abscess of the brain, Stokes, W., 618.
Breast. Tumor of the breast, 253; excision of the breast for cancer, Hodges, R. M., 517, 530
Breneman. an unusually rare case of plural births, 541.
Brigham, L. P. Report of a case of Tait's operation for removal of ovaries, 4
Bright's Disease. case of chronic, Baker, W. E., 572.
Bronson, E. B. Anthrarobin, 337.
Brouardel. Arsenic poisoning through the maternal milk, 70.
Brown, D. The arrest of secretions in the eruptive fevers, 509.
Bryant, W. S. Valves in the veins of the human intestines, 400.
Bryson, J. P., and Burnett, E. C. Clinical observations on gonorrhœa, with special reference to etiology, duration, and treatment, 331.
Buck, A. H. Reflex influences in the production of naso-pharyngeal catarrh, 87; a contribution to the anatomy of the elephant's ear, 111.
Bulkley, L. D. Dermatitis plantaris and palmaris, 343; the relations between the general practitioner and the consultant or specialist, 536.
Bull, C. S. A contribution to the treatment of membranous opacities in the vitreous, 88.
Bull, W. T. The physical management of typhlitis and perityphlitis, 309.
Bullard, W. N. Observations on the steadiness of the hand and on static equilibrium, 595.
Buller, T. A case of pulsating exophthalmus cured by ligature of the common carotid artery, 88.
Bulletins. An illustration of medical bulletins, 140.
Bundy, F. E. One, possibly two, cases of Graves's disease, 27, 36.
Burnett, C. H. A case of aural vertigo (Meniere's disease) relieved by excision of the membrana tympani and malleus, 86.
Burnett, S. M. An analysis of 576 cases of the refraction of healthy human cornea, examined with the ophthalmometer of Javal and Schidz, 89; models exhibiting refraction by cylinders, 111.
Burrell, H. L. Cases illustrating the use of compression after the method of Mr. Gamgee, 528; a few points in Macewen's operation for the radical cure of hernia, 545, 554.
Burrell, H. L., and Cushing, H. W. Report on progress in surgery, 246, 283.
Burt, F. L. Uterine hæmorrhages, 580.
Bustles. Bustles, 490; the bustle, 514.
Cabot, A. T. Case of laparotomy for tubercular peritonitis, 121.
Cænogenesis. Gegenbauer, 185.
Campbell, E. R. What constitutes irregular practice? 410.
Campbell, W. M. A visit to the clinique of Dr. Apostoli of Paris, 262.
Capron, E. P. A case of glioma, 110.
Carbuncle. Two cases of carbuncle, Beach, H. H. A., 251.
Cascara sagrada in rheumatism, Goodwin, H. T., 22.
Cerebro-spinal meningitis. Endemic cerebro-spinal meningitis, Townsend, C. W., 52; a case of cerebro-spinal meningitis, Jacobs, H. B., 57; two cases of spinal meningitis, Jackson, H., 58; a case of cerebro-spinal meningitis of the pneumonic type with painful joints, and worms, Mason, A. L., 62; two cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis, Grass, G. G., 131.
Channing, W. Massachusetts lunacy laws, 97, 105; "freedom cure for insanity," 239.
Chantemesse and Wisal. The persistence of the germs of tuberculosis in river water, 183.
Cheever, D. W. Shock, 293, 313.
Children. Experiment studies on some points concerning the causation and treatment of the summer diarrhœa of infants, Vaughan, V. C., 14; a study of the micro-organisms in the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Booker, W. D., 16; microscopic examination of the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Holt, L. E., 16; practical hints about children, 44; a case of noma, Rotch, T. M., 35; inquiry into the influence of the temperature of the air on the death of infants from diarrhœal diseases; the bacteria of the alimentary canal, especially in the diarrhœas of infancy, Jeffries, J. A., 217; apparatus for the sterilization of infant food, Rotch, T. M., 286; litholapaxy in male children, Keegan, D. F., 333; some post-hemiplegic disturbances of motion in children, Knapp, P. C., 495; case of infantile hemiplegia with marked spastic contracture and slight athetoid movements in the fingers, Smith, J. L., 509; report on diseases of children, Rotch, T. M., 573, 603; acute lobar pneumonia in children, Townsend, C. W., 631.
Children's Hospital. The new out-patient building of the Boston Children's Hospital, 392.
Chinese "nervelessness," 318.
Chismore, G. On the effects of rapid changes of altitude in an advanced case of interstitial nephritis, 335.
Cholagogues, 439.
Cholera. Pettenkofer and cholera, 44.
Circulatory System. Ectocardia cured by a plastic operation, Lanuelongue, 44; penetration of the heart by a slate pencil, Rotch, T. M., 63; hypertension of the arteries; therapeutic indications, 66, 91; report on progress in thoracic disease, Shattuck, F. C., 226; simultaneous ligature of the right carotid and subclavian arteries for aneurism of the innominate, Packard, J. H., 311; the arrest of hæmorrhage from wounds in the palm of the hand, Levis, R. J., 317; the cardiac changes in chronic Bright's disease, Loomis, A. L., 362; the treatment of valvular affections of the heart, DaCosta, 363; disturbances of the heart rhythm, with reference to their causation and their value in diagnosis, Baumgarten, G., 363; valves in the veins of the human intestines, Bryant, W. S., 400; the treatment of valvular diseases of the heart, 461; experience with strophanthus in heart disease, Devine, W., 479; sudden heart failure in diphtheria: its pathology and treatment, Smith, J. L., 480.
Clarke, M. D. Therapeutic nihilism, 199.
Classification. Classification of diseases, Baker, H. B., 559.
Classification of disease by means of comparative nosology, Allbut, C., 206.
Clothing. Woollen or cotton underclothing, 619.
Coe, H. C. Grouped cells in ascitic fluid as diagnostic of malignant disease of the peritonæum, 261.
Coley, W. B. Treatment of penetrating shot-wounds of the abdomen, 373.
Color-blindness. Description of a series of tests for the detection and determination of subnormal color-perception (color-blindness) designed for use in railway service, Oliver, C. A., 109.
Cold. The use of cold in diarrhœa of children during the hot weather, 164.
Colporrhaphy. New form of posterior colporrhaphy, Kellogg, J. H., 321.
Compression. Cases illustrating the use of compression, after the method of Mr. Gamgee, Burrell, H. L., 528.
Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, 214.
Congress for the study of Tuberculosis, 182.
Connor, L. Report of standing committee on the requirements for preliminary education in the various medical colleges of the United States and Canada, 565.
Constipation. Postural treatment of constipation, Whitney, J. O., 23; postural treatment of constipation, 178.
Consumption. The treatment of consumption by residence at high altitudes, 488.
Corey. The therapeutic value of hypnotism, 484.
Cornil. On the transmission of tuberculous infection by the mucous membranes, 183.
Cornil and Toupet. On pseudo-tuberculosis in men and animals 184.
Corrosive Sublimate. The value of corrosive sublimate as a practical disinfectant, Hills, W. B., 169.
Councilman, W. T. Some further investigations on the malarial germ of Lavaran, 436.
Cream Pie. Food poisoning, Crocker, S. E., 230.
Creoline. Otis, E. O., 132.
Crime. The proper treatment of crime and criminals; ought the criminal to be dealt with as a lunatic? 538.
Crocker, S. E. Food poisoning, 230.
Croup. The comparative merits of tracheotomy and intubation in the treatment of croup, Gay, G. W., 311, 349.
Cushing, E. W. Changes in the uterine mucous membrane, 577.
Cushing, H. W. An improved method for the radical cure of femoral hernia, 546.
Cutaneous System. Report on progress in dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 6; a case of noma, Rotch, T. M., 35; two forms of skin tuberculosis, Baren, J. T., 151; address before American Dermatological Association, Atkinson, G. E., 335; the electrolytic decomposition of organic tissues, Rohe, G. H., 336; the value of salicylic acid in dermatology, Heitzmann, C., 336; kraurosis of the vulva, Heitzmann, C., 343; anthrarobin, Bronson, E. B., 337; personal observations on skin diseases in the negro, Morison, R. B., 338; the relations of papilloma to syphilis and tuberculosis of the skin, Morrow, P. A., 339; a report upon three cases of dermatitis herpetiformis, Graham, J. E., 339; dermatitis herpetiformis, with notes of three cases, Stelwagon, H. W., 340; molluscum contagiosum, Stelwagon, H. W., 341; note of a case of filaria medinensis, Van Herlingen, A., 340; note relative to the condyloma from lesions induced by ingestion of some of the iodine compounds, Hyde, J. N., 340; the non-identity of lichen planus and lichen ruber, Fox, G. H., 342; the question of relationship between lichen ruber (Hebra) and lichen planus (Wilson), Robinson, A. B., 342; lichen ruber, as observed in America, and its differentiation from lichen planus, Taylor, R. W., 342; dermatitis tuberosa, Taylor, R. W., 343; dermatitis plantaris and palmaris, Bulkley, L. D., 343; recent progress in dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 500.
Cutler, E. G. Fæcal accumulation, 430, 434.
DaCosta. The treatment of valvular affections of the heart, 363; spasm of the bronchial tubes, 628.
Dana, C. L. The cortical localization of cutaneous sensations, 329.
Dandridge, N. P. Nerve stretching, 312.
Davenport, B. F. Report on food and drugs: their sophistication and analyses, 103; the detection of morphine in the urine as a means of diagnosis, 124.
Davenport, F. H. Report of progress in gynecology, 128; uterine displacements and their influence on the general nervous system, 172; some gynecological cases treated by the faradic current, 397, 405.
De Brun. Pulmonary tuberculosis in Styria, 183.
Delirium Tremens. The treatment of delirium tremens by strychnine, 510.
Dentistry. Progress in dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 59.
Dercum, F. X. A subcutaneous connective tissue dystrophy of the arms and back, associated with symptoms resembling myxœdema, 329.
Dermatology. Recent progress in dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 6., 500.
Dermoid cyst, Bolles, W. P., 605.
D'Espine. The bacillus of diphtheria, 514.
Deunne. Tuberculosis transmitted by the milk of a phthisical cow, 69.
Deutsch-medizinische-schrift-sucht, or the German Medical-Journal habit, Hawley, J. S., 166.
Devine, W. Experience with strophanthus in heart disease, 479.
Diabetes. Forms of diabetes mellitus, Seegen, 563.
Diagnosis. A matter of diagnosis, 259.
Diarrhœa. Experimental studies on some points concerning the causation and treatment of the summer diarrhœa of infants, Vaughan, V. C., 14; a study of the micro-organisms in the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Booker, W. D., 16; microscopic examination of the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Holt, L. E., 16; treatment of chronic diarrhœa, 43; inquiry into the influence of the temperature of the air on the death of infants from diarrhœal diseases, Meinert, 73; the use of cold in diarrhœas of children during the hot weather, 164; the bacteria of the alimentary canal, especially in the diarrhœas of infancy, Jeffries, J. A., 217.

Digestive system. Experimental studies on some points concerning the causation and treatment of the summer diarrhœa of infants, Vaughan, V. C., 14; a study of the micro-organisms in the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Booker, W. D., 16; microscopic examination of the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, Holt, L. E., 16; experimental researches relative to the action of medicaments on the biliary secretion and the elimination by this secretion, 20; postural treatment of constipation, Whitney, J. O., 23; visceral disease and insanity, 42; treatment of chronic diarrhœa, 43; progress in dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 59; inquiry into the influence of the temperature of the air on the death of infants from diarrhœal diseases, Meinert, 73; the surgical treatment of intestinal obstruction, 114; cases of laparotomy for tubercular peritonitis, Cabot, A. T., 121; clinical notes of a case of perityphlitis: laparotomy thirty-two hours after the beginning of the attack, Wyman, S. E., 126; the use of cold in diarrhœas of children during the hot weather, 164; foreign bodies in the rectum, Goodsall, D. H., 166; postural treatment of constipation, Williams, E. T., 178; saccharine considered as an antiseptic of the digestic passages, 186; the bacteria of the alimentary canal, especially in the diarrhœas of infancy, Jeffries, J. A., 217; two cases of appendicitis, one fatal, Stedman, C. E., 241; a case of strangulated hernia, Beach, H. H. A., 251; peritonitis from perforating ulcer of the stomach, Fitz, R. H., 253; grouped cells in ascitic fluid as diagnostic of malignant disease of the peritoneum, 261; the medical relations of acute intestinal obstruction, Fitz, R. H., 295; the surgical treatment of acute intestinal obstruction, Senn, 295; the surgical treatment of typhlitis and perityphlitis, Ball, W. T., 309; the propriety of surgical interference in perforating typhoid ulcer, Mears, J. E., 310; a case of volvulus, Warren, J. C., 380; valves in the veins of the human intestines, Bryant, W. S., 400; a case of appendicitis, with autopsy, Warner, E., 404; acute yellow atrophy of the liver, Allen, C. J., 408; fæcal accumulation, Cutler, E. G., 430, 434; a case of ulcerative perforation of the transverse colon: laparotomy twelve hours later; death on the seventh day from septic peritonitis caused by fæcal extravasation, Richardson, M. H., 432, 435; concerning cholagogues, 439; on the treatment of intestinal occlusion by electricity, 439; the diagnosis and medical treatment of acute intestinal obstruction, Fitz, R. H., 445, 469, 493, 523; tubercular peritonitis, apparently cured by laparotomy, Morrill, F. G., and Bradford, E. H., 534; a case of appendicitis in a child, Whitman, R., 551, 553; movements of the stomach, 586; a case of intestinal obstruction, Richardson, M. H., 629, 633.

Diphtheria. The treatment of diphtheria, 369; its history, cause, and prevention, Hamilton, J. B., 411; sudden heart failure in diphtheria: its pathology and treatment, Smith, J. L., 480; the bacillus of diphtheria, D'Espine, 514.

Disinfection. Methods of disinfection as tested at the quarantine station below New Orleans, Kinyoun, J. J., 61; the value of corrosive sublimate as a practical disinfectant, Hills, W. B., 169.

Dislocation of hip of eleven months' standing: reduction by manipulation, Thorndike, W. H., 229.

Doctor at home, 438.

Doran, A. Ovariotomy in age, 118.

Doty, D. Description of Pullman, Ill., 586.

Draper, W. H. Address before Association of American Physicians, 359.

Drowning. A disputed case of accidental drowning, Winsor, F., 65.

Drugs. Report on food and drugs, Davenport, B. F., 103.

Dunsmore, G. Sepsis in obstetrics, 409.

Durant, C. E. Abortion, 232.

Duret. Glandular tuberculosis, 184.

Dwight, T. Demonstration of a model of frozen sections of the arm, with remarks on this method of teaching anatomy, 245, 285; recent progress in anatomy, 322.

Ear. A case of aural vertigo (Meniere's disease) relieved by excision of the membrana tympani and malleus, Barnett, C. H., 86; reflex influences in the production of nasopharyngeal catarrh, Buck, H., 87; hallucinations of hearing, Kite, J. A., 105; a contribution to the anatomy of the elephant's ear, Buck, A. H., 111; a case of polypoid angioma of the ear, Richards, H., 112; a case of false drum membrane, 112; the flexible catheter as a drainage-tube, with cases, 112; three cases of transient bilateral horizontal nystagmus in connection with purulent inflammation of the middle ear, Kipp, C. J., 113; an improved aural snare, Tansley, J. O., 113; othæmatoma or insane ear, Field, M. D., 583; a new form of clinical tuning fork, Blake, C. J., 604, 605; three casts of the membrana tympani, Morse, H. L., 605; treatment in cases where symptoms point to inflammation in the mastoid antrum and mastoid cells, Morse, H. L., 593, 605.

Edes, R. T. Dinner to foreign guests of the Congress of Physicians and Surgeons, 191; the relation of renal diseases to diseases of the nervous system, 328; the absolute and relative value of albumen and casts, and of renal inadequacy in the diagnosis and prognosis of diseases of the kidney, 361.

Editorials. Annual report of the Boston City Hospital for 1887, 18; history of a medicament, 19; experimental research relative to action of medicaments on the biliary secretion and the elimination by this secretion, 20; visceral disease and insanity, 42; treatment of chronic diarrhœa, 43; the Massachusetts Health Report, 66; hypertension of the arteries: therapeutic indications, i, 66; on the value of salt in the treatment of acute rheumatism, 67; the fourth year at the Harvard Medical School, 91; hyperte sion of the arteries: therapeutic indications, ii, 91; the surgical treatment of intestinal obstruction, 114; the mind-cure and faith-cure delusion, 116; leprosy in the Sandwich Islands, 117; sanitation sociologically considered, 138; an illustration of medical bulletins, 140; army medical examination, 140; the topography of the brain, 162; effect of ergot on the involution of the uterus, 163; the Yale Thermometric Bureau, 163; Gegenbaur on cænogenesis, 185; saccharine considered as an antiseptic of the digestive passages, 186; the scientific spirit of the age, 210; the breeding of paupers and criminals, 211; density of population as a social and sanitary question, 233; yellow fever in Florida, 235; Servia's sanitary system, 257; the Association of Genito-urinary Surgeons, 258; a matter of diagnosis, 259; the first triennial congress of American physicians and surgeons, 288; yellow fever, South and North, 288; the German treatment of obesity, 290; the congress of American physicians and surgeons, 314; on the employment of inhalatiqns in diseases of the bronchi and of the lungs, 344; shorthand as an aid to scientific study, 344; human beings as subjects of experimentation, 345; the index catalogue of the library of the Surgeon-General's office, number ix., 368; the treatment of diphtheria, 369; the President's pension vetoes, 390; on the treatment of hæmorrhages by revulsion over the hepatic region, 391; therapeutics as judged by figures, 413; intubation in Germany, 415; the doctor at home, 438; concerning cholagogues, 439; on the treatment of intestinal occlusion by electricity, 439; women and the study of medicine, 440; the treatment of valvular diseases of the heart, 461; the case of the late Emperor Frederick of Germany, 463; treatment of incontinence of urine by Rhus aromatica, 464; the mortality of pneumonia, 485; make way for liberty, 487; the treatment of consumption by residence at high altitudes, 488; on the diuretic action of strophanthus, 488; the treatment of delirium tremens by strychnine, 510; medical inspection of the Massachusetts Insane, 510; on special service, 511; improved provision for the insane at Providence, R. I., 511; the spread of tuberculosis, 512; the proper treatment of crime and criminals; ought the criminal to be dealt with as a lunatic? 538; puerperal fever a preventable disease, 539; pneumonia mortality in Massachusetts almshouses, 540; the registration of mortality and vital statistics, 561; Seegen on the forms of diabetes mellitus, 563; yellow fever on the cruiser Boston, 564; movements of the stomach, 586; secondary dementia, 587; a side light upon the plague of the sixteenth century, 612; gum chewing, 614; the death penalty by electricity, 615; annus medicus MDCCCLXXXVIII, 637; necrology of the Massachusetts Medical Society, 640.

Edson, C. The poison of typhoid fever, 609.

Education. The fourth year at the Harvard Medical School, 91; laboratories and museums of hygiene for teaching purposes, Proust, 94; the requirements for preliminary education in the various medical colleges of the United States and Canada, Connor, L., 505; the famous historic masters of the healing art were men of classical education, Fisher, G. J., 535; the necessity for post-graduation instruction in the present state of American medical education, Lee, C. C., 536; which is the liberal school? McIntire, C., 536; the influence of the work of the Illinois Medical Practice Act upon medical education, Johnson, H. A., 537.

Egan, P. R. Antipyrine as an analgesic, 466.

Electricity. Katalytic action of electricity; its practical value in rheumatic affections, Walton, G. L., 101; the curability of urethral stricture by electricity, Keyes, E. L., 332; the electrolytic decomposition of organic tissues, Rohé, G. H., 336; some gynecological cases treated by the faradic current, Davenport, F. H., 397, 405; on the treatment of intestinal occlusion by electricity, 439; the death penalty by electricity, 615.

Elephant. A contribution to the anatomy of the elephant's ear, Buck, A. H., 111.

Emerson, J. B. The flexible catheter as a drainage-tube, with cases 112.

Empyema. A new form for dressing in cases of empyema, Richardson, M. H., 388; permanent opening for empyema, Otis, E. O., 405.

Epilepsy. On a clinical report of cases of epilepsy following cerebral hemiplegia, Fisher, E. D., 327.

Eruptive Fevers. The arrest of secretions in the eruptive fevers, Brown, D., 509.

Ether. Observations of the time and amount of ether required to produce anæsthesia, Lovett, R. W., 549.

Eve, F. Eve on actinomycosis, 165.

Excisions. A contribution to the study of excisions of the larger joints, Ashhurst, J., Jr., 302.

Exophthalmic Goitre. One, possibly two, cases of Graves's disease, Bandy, F. E., 27, 36.

Eye. A contribution to the treatment of membranous opacities in the vitreous, Bull, C. S., 88; a case of pulsating exophthalmus cured by ligation of the common carotid artery, Buller, F., 88; pulsating exophthalmus, Kipp, C. J., 89; an analysis of 576 cases of the refraction of healthy human corneæ examined with the ophthalmometer of Javal & Schiötz, Barnett, S. M., 89; œdema of the choroid and retina, Johnson, E., 90; symptomatic myopia, Mittendorf, W. F., 90; hysterical blindness in the male, with a report of three cases, Moore, W. O., 109; description of a series of tests for the detection and determination of sub-normal color perception (color blindness), designed for railway service, Oliver, C. A., 109; case of embolism of the central retinal artery, Oliver, C. A., 109; a case of double congenital iridiremia in a child whose mother exhibited a congenital coloboma of each iris, Theobald, S., 109; puncture of the retina for detachment, Sutphen, T. Y., 110; a case of glioma, Capron, E. P., 110; models exhibiting refraction by cylinders, Barnett, S. M., 111; designation of prisms by their refractive power, Jackson, E., 111; extraction of a partially absorbed calcareous lens, Webster, D., 111; recent progress in ophthalmology, Standish, M., 152; ophthalmoplegia externa, Wadsworth, O. F., 207; recent progress in ophthalmology, Standish, M., 625; headaches and other nervous symptoms caused by functional anomalies of the eye, Oppenheimer, H. S., 634.

Fenwick, E. H. Notes upon the prognosis of organic stricture of the urethra, 332.

Fever. Continued and remittent fevers, 21.

Field, M. D. Othæmatoma or insane ear, 583.

Filaria. The history of the filaria sanguinis hominis, Mastin, W. M., 332; note of a case of filaria medinensis, Van Harlingen, A., 340.

Fisher, E. D. On a clinical report of cases of epilepsy following cerebral hemiplegia, 327.

Fisher, G. J. The famous historic masters of the healing art were men of classical education, 535.

Fiske, E. L. Antipyrine as an analgesic, 34.
Fisk, S. A. Antipyrine in sea-sickness, 238; spontaneous fracture of a rib, 325.
Fitz, R. H. Peritonitis from perforating ulcer of the stomach; 252; the medical relations of acute intestinal obstruction, 295; the diagnosis and medical treatment of acute intestinal obstruction, 445, 469, 493, 523.
Florida. Yellow fever in Florida, 235.
Fœtus. Can the fœtus in utero be infected by the mother? Wolff, M., 261; intra-uterine fœtal deformities, Blake, J. G., 498; a large baby, Lewis, E. R., 543.
Food. Report on food and drugs, Davenport, B. F., 103; food poisoning, Crocker, S. E., 230; apparatus for the sterilization of infant food, Rotch, T. M., 286.
Fox, G. H. The non-identity of Lichen planus and Lichen ruber, 342.
Frederick. The case of the late Emperor Frederick of Germany, 463.
Frederick, C. C. Discussion on puerperal septicæmia, 405.
Gairdner, W. T. The physician as naturalist, 203.
Garbage Furnaces, Kilvington, L. S., 585.
Garland, G. M. Gelseminum sempervirens, 243.
Gay, G. W. The comparative merits of tracheotomy and intubation in the treatment of croup, 311, 349.
Gegenbauer on cænogenesis, 185.
Gelseminum sempervirens, Garland, G. M., 243.
Generative system. Ovariotomy and marriage, Tait, L., 45; the harmlessness of cervical lacerations, Noeggerath, E., 94; ovariotomy in age, Doran, A., 118; report of progress in gynecology, Davenport, F. H., 126; uterine displacements and their influence on the general nervous system, Davenport, F. H., 168; ovarian cyst, Beach, H. H. A., 253; the physics of the male urethra, Wagstaffe, W. W., 260; new form of posterior colporrhaphy, Kellogg, J. H., 321; pyæmia as a direct result of gonorrhœa, Park, R., 331; clinical observations on gonorrhœa, with special reference to etiology, duration and treatment, Bryson, J. P., and Burnett, E. C., 331; retrojections in gonorrhœa, Palmer, E. R., 331; the use of nitrate of silver in the local treatment of chronic urethral discharges, Sturgis, F. R., 331; the diagnosis and treatment of chronic urethritis, with demonstrations of instruments, Oberländer, 331; the connection between masturbation and stricture of the urethra, Gross, S. W., 332; the curability of urethral stricture by electricity, Keyes, E. L., 332; notes upon the prognosis of organic stricture of the urethra, Frederick, E. H., 332; clinical observations of diseases of the testicles, Bangs, L. B., 332; case of removal of both testicles for recurrent carcinoma, Rockwell, F. W., 332; some points in the differential diagnosis of bladder and kidney affections, with demonstrations of the cystoscope and other instruments, Stein, A. W., 333; résumé of an experience of seventeen years with the operation of dilating urethrotomy, Otis, F. N., 335; kraurosis of the vulva, Heitzmann, C., 343; some gynecological cases treated by the faradic current, Davenport, F. H., 397, 405; puerile genitalia, Stephenson, F. B., 403; a report of a case of Tait's operation for removal of ovaries, Brigham, L. M., 411; sexual perversion the cause of the Whitechapel murders, Kelley, H. A., 418; the value of Alexander's operation for shortening the round ligaments estimated from the results of twenty-three cases, 556; changes in the uterine mucous membrane, Cushing, E. W., 577; uterine hæmorrhages, Burt, F. L., 580; vicarious menstruation, Vickery, H. F., 604; dermoid cyst, Bolles, W. P., 605.
Gerrish, F. H. Address before the American Academy of Medicine, 506.
Girding up the loins, 514.
Gonorrhœa. Pyæmia as a direct result of gonorrhœa, Park, R., 331; clinical observations on gonorrhœa, with special reference to etiology, duration, and treatment, Bryson, J. P., and Burnett, E. C., 331; retrojections in gonorrhœa, Palmer, E. R., 331; the use of nitrate of silver in the local treatment of chronic urethral discharges, Sturgis, F. R., 331; the diagnosis and treatment of chronic urethritis, with demonstrations of instruments, Oberländer, 331.
Goodsall, D. H. Foreign bodies in the rectum, 166.
Goodwin, H. T. Cascara sagrada in rheumatism, 22.
Graham, J. E. A report upon three cases of dermatitis herpetiformis, 339.
Graham, D. Massage in writer's cramp and allied affections, 569, 609.
Gratch, N. S. A case of perforating wound of the abdomen inflicted by an ox's horn, 262.
Graves's Disease. One, possibly two, cases of Graves's disease, 27, 36.
Gray, L. C. A typical case of disseminated sclerosis, with a post-mortem showing only leptomeningitis cerebri, 366; neurasthenia: its differentiation and treatment, 458.
Green, C. M. Report on obstetrics, 31; foreign body in the female bladder simulating stone, 36.
Gross, S. W. The connection between masturbation and stricture of the urethra, 332.
Gum chewing, 614.
Gunshot Wounds. Treatment of penetrating shot-wounds of the abdomen, Coley, W. B., 373.
Hæmatocele. Pelvic hæmatocele, Porter, C. B., 624.
Hæmoptysis. Iodoform in hæmoptysis, 238.
Hæmorrhages. On the treatment of hæmorrhages by revulsion over the hepatic region, 391: uterine hæmorrhages, Burt, F. L., 580.
Hallucinations of Hearing, Kite, J. A., 105.
Hamilton, J. H. Diphtheria: its history, cause, and prevention, 411.
Hand. The arrest of hæmorrhage from wounds of the palm of the hand, Levis, R. J., 317.
Harrington, C. An epidemic of typhoid fever due to infected milk, 49.
Harrington, F. B. A case of compound comminuted fracture of the skull, 630, 633.
Harrison, J. E. Hospitals among the Greeks, 617.
Harrison, R. Perineal litholapaxy, 335.
Harvard University. The fourth year at the Harvard Medical School, 91.
Hawley, J. S. Deutsch-medizinische-schritt-sucht; or the German medical-journal habit, 166.
Headache. A remedy for nervous headache, Wilmarth, J., 71; inveterate headache, with cases, Osgood, H., 76, 82; salicylates and caffeine in headache, Little, J., 442.
Hearing. Hallucinations of hearing, Wingate, U. O. B., 359.
Heat-centres in man, Ott, I., 327.
Hebrew Physicians in the middle ages, Stephenson, F. B., 176.
Heitzmann, C. The value of salicylic acid in dermatology, 336; kraurosis of the vulva, 343.
Hernia. A case of strangulated hernia, Beach, H. H. A., 251; a few points in Macewen's operation for the radical cure of hernia, Barrell, H. L., 545, 554; an improved method for the radical cure of femoral hernia, Cushing, H. W., 546.
Hertzer, C. A. The therapeutic uses of hypnotism, 482.
Hills, W. B. The value of corrosive sublimate as a practical disinfectant, 169; the chemistry of arsenic, 435.
Hingston, W. H. Operations on the kidney, 333.
Hip-Disease. Two cases of incision into the hip-joint, with observations as to "distraction" in hip-disease, Bradford, E. H., 147.
Hip. A method of determining the angle of flexion of the diseased leg in hip disease, Kingsley, G. L., 6; dislocation of hip of eleven months' standing: reduction by manipulation, Thorndike, W. H., 229.
History of a medicament, 19.
Hodges, R. M. Excision of the breast for cancer, 517, 530.
Holt, L. E. Microscopic examination of the stomach and intestines in the summer diarrhœa of infants, 16.
Hospitals among the Greeks, Harrison, J. E., 617.
How to construct a prescription, 590.
Human Beings as subjects of experimentation, 345.
Hunter, W. The pathology of pernicious anæmia, 417.
Hutchinson, J. H. The management of the stage of convalescence in typhoid fever, 360.
Hyde, J. N. Note relative to the condyloma from lesions induced by ingestion of some of the iodine compounds, 340.
Hygiene, Health, and Boards of Health. Density of population as a social and sanitary question, 233; Servia's sanitary system, 257; American Public Health Association, 584; garbage furnaces and the destruction of organic matter by fire, 585; problems of yellow-fever epidemics, 585; water pollution, Smart, C., 557.
Hypnotism. The therapeutic uses of hypnotism, Herter, C. A., 482; report of a case of tremor treated by hypnotic suggestion, Birdsall, W. R., 484; the therapeutic value of hypnotism, Corey, 484.
Hysteria, Boynton, H., 411; an epidemic of hysteria at Albadia, Magnani, 442.
Inequalities of Men, Laponge, 70.
Infectious Diseases. Casual therapeutics in infectious diseases, Wilson, J. C., 361.
Inhalations. On the employment of inhalations in diseases of the bronchi and of the lungs, 344.
Insane. Medical inspection of the Massachusetts insane, 510; improved provision for the insane at Providence, R. I., 511.
Insanity. "Freedom cure for insanity," Channing, W., 238; othæmatoma or insane ear, Field, M. D., 583.
Instruments and Apparatus. Ophthalmometer of Javal and Schaditz, Burnett, S. M., 89; cataract knife, Jackson, E., 90; eye probes made of aluminium, Theobald, S., 90.
Intubation in Germany, 415.
Iodine. Note relative to the condyloma from lesions induced by ingestion of some of the iodine compounds, Hyde, J. N., 340.
Iodoform in hæmoptysis, 238.
Irish, J. C. Resumé of two and one half years' experience in abdominal surgery, 621.
Irregular Practice. What constitutes irregular practice? Campbell, E. R., 410.
Ivanikoff. A case of argyrism, 417.
Jackson, E. New form of cataract knife, 90; designation of prisms by their refractive power, 111.
Jackson, H. Two cases of spinal meningitis, 58.
Jacobi, A. The pathology of the thymus gland, 364.
Jacobi. Practical hints about children, 44.
Jacobs, H. B. A case of cerebro-spinal meningitis, 57.
Jacoby, G. W. Subacute progressive polymyositis, 330.
Japanese his own surgeon, Merrick, C. H., 590.
Jeffries, J. A. The bacteria of the alimentary canal, especially in the diarrhœa of infancy, 217.
Jelly, G. F. A case of general paralysis of ten years' duration; death from heart disease, 25; a case of tetany, 37; medical advice regarding the marriage of subjects with a personal or family history of insanity, 457.
Johnson, E. Œdema of the choroid and retina, 90.
Johnson, H. A. The influence of the work of the Illinois Medical Practice Act upon medical education, 537.
Johnson, W. W. Geographical distribution of typhoid fever in the United States, 360.
Jurisprudence. A disputed case of accidental drowning, Winsor, F., 65; Massachusetts lunacy laws, Channing, W., 97; a matter of diagnosis, 259; sexual perversion the cause of the Whitechapel murders, Kelly, H. A., 418.
Kennedy, S. Mercurie changed to mercurous oxide, 191.
Keegan, D. F. Litholapaxy in male children, 333.
Keen, W. W. Three successful cases of cerebral surgery, 305.
Kellogg, J. H. New form of posterior colporrhaphy, 321.
Kelly, H. A. Sexual perversion the cause of the Whitechapel murders, 418.
Keyes, E. L. The curability of urethral stricture by electricity: an investigation, 332.
Kilvington, L. S. Garbage furnaces and the destruction of organic matter by fire, 585.
Kingsley, G. L. A method of determining the angle of flexion of the diseased leg in hip-disease, 6.
Kinyoun, J. J. Methods of disinfection as tested at the quarantine station below New Orleans, 69.
Kipps, C. J. Pulsating exophthalmus, 89; three cases of transient bilateral horizontal nystagmus in connection with purulent inflammation of the middle ear, 113.

Kite, J. A. Hallucinations of hearing, 105.
Klumpke, A., and Balzar, M. F. The elimination of mercury, 95.
Knapp, P. C. Nervous affections following injury: "concussion of spine," "railway spine," "railway brain," 133, 326, 421, 449; nervous affections following injury, 490; some post-hemiplegic disturbances of motion in children, 495.
Laboratories and Museums of Hygiene for teaching purposes, Proust, 94.
Lactic Acid in tuberculous ulcerations and lupus, Rafin, 417.
Lagneau, G. Old families, 490.
Lanuelongue. Ectocardia cured by a plastic operation, 44.
Laparotomy. Cases of laparotomy for tubercular peritonitis, Cabot, A. T., 121; clinical notes of a case of perityphlitis; laparotomy thirty-two hours after the beginning of the attack, Wyman, S. E., 126; a case of laparotomy, Bradford, E. H., 387; two cases of laparotomy for extra-uterine pregnancy, Richardson, M. H., 549, 551; résumé of two and one half years' experience in abdominal surgery, Irish, J. C., 621.
Laponge. The inequalities of men, 70.
Lavaran. Some further investigations on the malarial germ of Lavaran, Councilman, W. T., 436.
Lectures. Shattuck lecture, 13.
Lee, B. Quarantine stations on the Atlantic Coast, 559.
Lee, C. C. The necessity for post-graduation instruction in the present state of American medical education, 536.
Leprosy in the Sandwich Islands, 117.
Levis, R. J. The arrest of hæmorrhage from wounds in the palm of the hand, 317.
Levitski, A. P. Scurvy in the Russian navy, 618.
Lewis, E. R. A large baby, 543.
Life Insurance. The relation of albuminuria to life insurance, Tyson, J., 362.
Linea albicantes in typhoid fever, 190.
Litholapaxy in male children, Keegan, D. F., 333; perinæal litholapaxy, Harrison, R., 335.
Little, J. Salicylates and caffeine in headache, 442.
Liver. Acute yellow atrophy of the liver, Allen, C. J., 408.
Lloyd, J. H. A case of focal epilepsy successfully treated by trephining and incision of the motor centre, 365.
Localization. Cerebral localization in its practical relations, Mills, C. K., 297; cerebral localization in its surgical relations, Park, R., 298; cerebral localization in reference to aphasia, Starr, M. A., 301; the cortical localization of cutaneous sensations, Dana, C. L., 329.
Loewenberg, B. On thoracic deformity produced by adenoid growths in upper pharynx, 46.
Loomis, A. L. The cardiac changes in chronic Bright's disease, 362.
Lovett, R. W. Observations on the time and amount of ether required to produce anæsthesia, 549.
MacEwen. Brain surgery, 205.
Macewen's Operation. A few points in Macewen's operation for the radical cure of hernia, Burrell, H. L., 545, 554.
McGuire, H. The formation of an artificial urethra for prostatic obstruction, 307.
Massage in writer's cramp and allied affections, Graham, D., 569.
McIntire, C. Which is the liberal school? 536.
MacLeod, G. H. B. Progress of surgery during the last half century, 204.
Mack. Lister triumphant, 187, 213, 236.
Magnani. An epidemic of hysteria at Albani, 442.
Maine State Insane Hospital. Diphtheria in the insane hospital, 346.
Malignant Growths. Observations on the surgical treatment of malignant growths, Richardson, M. H., 193, 223.
Marriage. Ovariotomy and marriage, Tait, L., 45; marriage of subjects with a personal or family history of insanity, Jelly, G. F., 457; the forthcoming report on marriage and divorce in the United States, 465.
Mason, A. L. A case of cerebro-spinal meningitis of the pneumonic type, with painful joints and worms, 62.
Mason, O. Six cases of treatment with animal magnetism, 484.
Massachusetts Lunacy Laws. Channing, W., 97.
Massage in writer's cramp and allied affections, Graham, D., 569, 609.
Mastin, W. M. The history of the filaria sanguinis hominis, 332.
Materia Medica and Therapeutics. Cascara sagrada in rheumatism, Goodwin, H. T., 22; antipyrine as an analgesic, Fiske, E. L., 34; on the value of salol in the treatment of acute rheumatism, 67; katalytic action of electricity: its practical value in rheumatic affections, Walton, G. L., 101; report on food and drugs, Davenport, B. F., 103; creoline, Otis, E. O., 132; photoxyline, Otis, E. O., 132; effect of ergot on the involution of the uterus, 163; antipyrine in sea-sickness, Fisk, S. A., 238; gelseminum sempervirens, Garland, G. M., 243; sulphonal, 260; the value of salicylic acid in dermatology, Heitzmann, C., 336; anthrarobin, Bronson, E. B., 337; therapeutics as judged by figures, 413; lactic acid in tuberculous ulcerations and lupus, Rafin, 317; concerning cholagogues, 439; salicylates and caffeine in headache, Little, J., 442; antipyrine as an analgesic, Egan, P. R., 466; experience with strophanthus in heart disease, Devine, W., 479; the therapeutic uses of hypnotism, Herter, C. A., 482; report of a case of tremor treated by hypnotic suggestion, Birdsall, W. R., 484; six cases of treatment with animal magnetism, Mason, O., 484; on the diuretic action of strophanthus, 488; the treatment of delirium tremens by strychnine, 510; the multiplication of useless drugs, Bombaugh, C. C., 537.
Means, J. E. The propriety of surgical interference in perforating typhoid ulcer, 310.
Meinert. Inquiry into the influence of the temperature of the air on the death of infants from diarrhœal diseases, 73.
Menstruation. Vicarious menstruation, Vickery, H. F., 604.
Mercury. The elimination of mercury, Balzar, M. F., and Klumpke, A., 95.
Mercury. Mercuric changed to mercurous oxide, Kennedy, S., 191.
Micro-organisms. The relation of micro-organisms to injuries and surgical diseases, Senn, N., 305.
Milk. An epidemic of typhoid fever due to infected milk, Harrington, C., 49.
Miller, J. S. A contribution to the study of bone repair, 158.
Mills, C. K. Cerebral localization in its practical bearing, 297.
Mind. Visceral disease and insanity, 42; Massachusetts lunacy laws, Channing, W., 97; private mental sanitaria and the inebrieties, 118; secondary dementia, 587.
Mind cure and faith cure delusions, 116.
Mitchell, S. W. Aneurism of an anomalous artery, causing antero-posterior division of the optic chiasm and bitemporal hemianopsia, 367.
Mittendorf, W. F. Symptomatic myopia, 90.
Mixter, S. J. A case of Porro's operation performed on account of multiple myomata, saving both mother and child, 455.
Mole. A case of hydatiform mole, Shattuck, G. B., 358.
Monster. A case of pregnancy in the left half of a double monster, 489; intra-uterine fœtal deformities, Blake, J. G., 498, 504.
Moore, W. O. Hysterical blindness in the male, with a report of three cases, 109.
Morphine. The detection of morphine in the urine as a means of diagnosis, Davenport, B. F., 124.
Morrill, F. G., and Bradford, E. H. Tubercular peritonitis, apparently cured by laparotomy, 534.
Morrison, R. B. Personal observations on skin diseases in the negro, 338.
Morrow, P. A. The relations of papilloma to syphilis and tuberculosis of the skin, with report of a case, 339.
Morse, H. L. Three casts of the membrana tympani, 605; treatment in cases where symptoms point to inflammation in the mastoid antrum and mastoid cells, 359, 606.
Mortality. The registration of mortality and vital statistics, 561.
Mudd, H. G. An unusual case of urethral calculus, 335.
Munde, P. F. The value of Alexander's operation for shortening the round ligaments, estimated from the results of twenty-three cases, 556.
Museums. On medical museums, with special reference to the army medical museum at Washington, Billings, J. S., 265.
Naturalist. The physician as naturalist, Gairdner, W. T., 203.
Necrology of the Massachusetts Medical Society, 640.
Negro. Personal observations on skin diseases in the negro, Morrison, R. B., 338.
Nephrectomy. Willard, D. E. F., 312.
Nerve Stretching. Dandridge, N. P., 312.
Nervous System. On motor paralysis and other symptoms of poisoning from medicinal doses of arsenic, Putnam, J. J., 1, 10: a case of general paralysis of ten years' duration, death from heart disease, Jelly, 25; one, possibly two cases of Graves's disease, Bundy, F. E., 27, 36; a case of tetany, Jelly, 37: endemic cerebro-spinal meningitis, Townsend, C. W., 52, 63; a case of cerebro-spinal meningitis, Jacobs, H. B., 57, 63; two cases of cerebral meningitis, Jackson, H., 58, 63; a case of cerebro-spinal meningitis of the pneumonic type, with painful joints and worms, Mason, A. L., 62; a remedy for nervous headache, Wilmarth, J., 71; inveterate headache, with cases, Osgood, H., 76, 82; a case of athetosis, Pengra, C. P., 80, 81; peripheral paralysis following the use of the rubber tourniquet, Putnam, J. J., 107; three cases of transient bilateral horizontal nystagmus in connection with purulent inflammation of the middle ear, 131; two cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis, Sears, G. G., 131; nervous affections following injury: "concussion of spine," "railway spine," "railway brain," Knapp, P. C., 133, 326, 421, 449; abscess of the brain, Trumbull, J., 142; the topography of the brain, 162; uterine displacements, and their influence on the general nervous system, Davenport, F. H., 168; personal observations on multiple neuritis, Putnam, J. J., 325; cases of cerebral tumor, Webber, S. G., 277; 286; cerebral localization in its practical relations, Mills, C. K., 297; cerebral localization in its surgical relations, Park, R., 298; cerebral localization in its relation to aphasia, Starr, M. A., 301; three successful cases of cerebral surgery, Keen, W. W., 305; nerve stretching, Dandridge, N. P., 312; on nervous affections following injury ("concussion of the spine," "railway spine," and "railway brain,") Knapp, P. C., 326; heat centres in man, Ott, I., 326; on a clinical report of cases of epilepsy following cerebral hemiplegia, Fisher, E. D., 327; the relation of renal diseases to diseases of the nervous system, Edes, R. T., 328; the cortical localization of cutaneous sensations, Dana, C. L., 329; a subcutaneous connective tissue, dystrophy of the arms and back, associated with symptoms resembling myxœdema, Dercum, F. X., 329; subacute progressive polymyositis, Jacoby, G. W., 330; muscular dystrophies, Sachs, B., 330; hallucinations of hearing, Wingate, U. O. B., 359; the relation between trophic lesions and diseases of the nervous system, Seguin, E. C., 363; a case of focal epilepsy successfully treated by trephining and incision of the motor centre, Lloyd, J. H., 365; infectious neuritis, Putnam, J. J., 366; a typical case of disseminated sclerosis, with a post-mortem showing only leptomeningitis cerebri, Gray, L. C., 366; aneurism of an anomalous artery, causing antero-posterior division of the optic chiasm and bitemporal hemianopsia, Mitchell, S. W., 367; a contribution to the study of muscular tremor, Peterson, F., 367; hereditary chorea, Sink, C. W., 368; hysteria, Brynton, H., 411; neurasthenia: its differentiation and treatment, Gray, L. C., 458; report of a case of tremor treated by hypnotic suggestion, Birdsall, W. A., 484; six cases of treatment with animal magnetism, Mason, O., 484; nervous affections following injury, Knapp, P. C., 490; some post-hemiplegic disturbances of motion in children, Knapp, P. C., 495; neurosis of the bladder, Blake, J. G., 505; case of infantile hemiplegia, with marked spastic contracture and slight athetoid movements in the fingers, Smith, J. L., 509; muscular dystrophies, Sachs, B., 581; massage in writer's cramp and allied affections, Graham, D., 569, 609; observations on the steadiness of the hand and on static equilibrium, Bullard, W. N., 595; subdural abscess of the brain, Stokes, W., 618; headaches and other nervous symptoms caused by functional anomalies of the eye, Oppenheimer, H. S., 634.
Neurasthenia, its differentiation and treatment, Gray, L. C., 458.
Neuritis. Personal observations on multiple neuritis, Putman, J. J., 253; infectious neuritis, Putman, J. J., 366.
Nihilism. Therapeutic nihilism, Clarke, M. D., 199.
Nocard. The dangers arising from the use of meat and milk from tuberculous animals, 183.
Noeggerath, E. The harmlessness of cerebral laceration, 94.
Noma. A case of noma, Rotch, T. M., 35.

Nordman. Statistics and treatment of placenta prævia, 165.
Nurse. The nurse at large, Osgood, H., 618.
Nursing. A system of free nursing as organized in Philadelphia, Price, J., 346.
Oberlander. The diagnosis and treatment of chronic arthritis, with demonstrations of instruments, 331.
Obesity. The German treatment of obesity, 290.
Obstetrics. The importance of practical obstetrics in the course of instruction given by medical schools, Parsons, T., 506.
Old families, Lagneau, G., 490.
Oliver, C. A. Description of a series of tests for the detection and determination of subnormal color-perception (color blindness), designed for use in railway service, 109; case of embolism of the central retinal artery, 169.
Opium-habit. The causes and prevention of the opium-habit and kindred affections, Wilson, J. C., 505.
Oppenheimer, H. S. Headaches and other nervous symptoms caused by functional anomalies of the eye, 634.
Orthopraxy. A method of determining the angle of flexion of the diseased leg in hip-disease, Kingsley, G. L., 6; two cases of incision into the hip-joint, with observations as to "distraction" in hip-disease, Bradford, E. H., 147, 155; a contribution to the study of excisions of the larger joints, Ashhurst, J., Jr., 302; recent progress in orthopedic surgery, Bradford, E. H., and Lovett, R. W., 475.
Osgood, H. Inveterate headache with cases, 76, 82; the nurse at large, 618.
Osler, W. Puerperal anæmia and its treatment with arsenic, 454.
Otis, E. O. Creoline, 132; photoxyline, 132; permanent opening for empyema, 405.
Otis, F. N. Demonstration of a perfected evacuator and an improvement in the method of removal of debris from the bladder, 333; resume of an experience of seventeen years with the operation of dilating urethrotomy, 335.
Ott, I. Heat-centres in man, 327.
Ovarian cyst. Beach, H. H. A., 253.
Ovariotomy. Ovariotomy and marriage, Tait, L., 45; ovariotomy and age, Doran, A., 118; resume of two and one half years' experience in abdominal surgery, Irish, J. C., 621.
Packard, J. H. Supra-pubic cystotomy, 308; simultaneous ligature of the right carotid and subclavian arteries for aneurism of the innominate, 311.
Palmer, E. R. Retrojections in gonorrhœa, 331.
Papilloma. The relations of papilloma to syphilis and tuberculosis of the skin, Morrow, P. A., 339.
Paralysis. A case of general paralysis of ten years' duration: death from heart disease, Jelly, 25.
Parasites. The history of the filaria sanguinis hominis, Mastin, W. M., 332; note of a case of filaria medinensis, Van Harlingen, A., 340.
Paris. Paris letter, 466.
Park, R. Cerebral localization in its surgical relations, 298; pyæmia as a direct result of gonorrhœa, 331.
Parsons, T. The importance of practical obstetrics in the course of instruction given by medical schools, 506.
Pathology. Address on pathology, Aitken, W., 206.
Paul, C. Saccharine considered as an antiseptic of the digestive passages, 186.
Paupers. The breeding of paupers and criminals, 211.
Peculiar People. Make way for liberty! 487.
Pengra, C. P. A case of athetosis, 80, 81.
Pensions. The President's pension vetoes, 390.
Perineal Section. Five cases of perineal section, with exceptional complications, Porter, C. B., 148, 156.
Perityphlitis. Clinical notes of a case of perityphlitis: laparotomy thirty-eight hours after the beginning of the attack, Wyman, S. E., 126.
Peterson, F. A contribution to the study of muscular tremor, 367.
Pettenkofer and Cholera, 44.
Pharynx. The anatomy, physiology, and therapeutics of the pharynx, Baney, A. C., 410.
Photoxyline. Otis, E. O., 132.
Physical Culture. Report of physical culture in schools, Adams, Z. B., Bradford, E. H., and Withington, C. F., 179.
Physiology as she is taught in the public schools, 394.
Placenta Prævia. Statistics and treatment of placenta prævia, Nordman, 165.
Plague. A side light upon the plague of the sixteenth century, 612.
Pneumonia. The mortality of pneumonia, 485; pneumonia mortality in Massachusetts almshouses, 540.
Poisons. On motor paralysis and other symptoms of poisoning from medicinal doses of arsenic, Putnam, J. J., 1, 10; arsenic poisoning through the maternal milk, Brouardel, 70; unusual susceptibility to sedative remedies, Blodgett, A. N., 201; food poisoning, Crocker, S. E., 230; current toxicological notions, 418; some historical and statistical facts concerning the use of arsenic as a poison, Cabot, S. W., 435.
Population. Density of population as a social and sanitary question, 233.
Porro's operation. A case of Porro's operation, performed on account of multiple myomata, saving both mother and child, Mixter, S. J., 455.
Porter, C. B. Five cases of perineal section, with exceptional complications, 148, 156; pelvic hæmatocele, 624.
Pregnancy, affections connected with. Early rupture of a tubal gestation sac: operation, Zuctrer, J., 22; a case of labor with threatening symptoms, Reynolds, E., 30, 34; report on obstetrics, Green, C. M., 31; a case of purulent puerperal peritonitis successfully treated by incision and drainage, Woodward, S. B., 33; affections connected with a case of hydatiform mole, Sanftuck, G. B., 358; discussion on puerperal septicæmia, 405; sepsis in obstetrics, Dunsmore, G., 409; puerperal anæmia and its treatment with arsenic, Osler, W., 454; a case of Porro's operation, performed on account of multiple myomata saving both mother and child, Mixter, S. J., 455; a case of pregnancy in the left half of a double monster, 489; puerperal fever a preventable disease, 539; an unusually rare case of plural births, Breneman, 541; induction of premature labor, Bayet, 542; effect of ergot on the involution of the uterus, 163; statistics and treatment of placenta prævia, Nordman, 165; report of cases confined at the Boston Lying-in Hospital, Boardman, W. E., 196, 202; abortion, Durant, C. E., 232; pregnancy and operative surgery, Tiffany, L. McL., 312; two cases of laparotomy for extra-uterine pregnancy, Richardson, M. H., 549, 551.
Prescription, how to construct a, 590.
Price, J. A system of free nursing as organized in Philadelphia, 346.
Prize offered to medical microscopists, 620.
Prouse. Laboratories at the museums of hygiene for teaching purposes, 94.
Puerperal Fever a preventable disease, 539.
Pullman, Ill. Doty, D., 586.
Putnam, J. J. On motor paralysis and other symptoms of poisoning from medicinal doses of arsenic, 1, 10; peripheral paralysis following the use of the rubber tourniquet, 107; personal observations on multiple neuritis, 253; infectious neuritis, 366.
Pyæmia as a direct result of gonorrhœa, Park, R., 331.
Quarantine. A new quarantine act, 141; quarantine stations of the Atlantic coast, 559.
Rafin. Lactic acid in tuberculous ulcerations and lupus, 417.
Railway Injuries. Nervous affections following railway injuries, Knapp, P. C., 133; on nervous affections following injury ("concussion of the spine," "railway spine," and "railway brain"), Knapp, P. C., 135, 326, 421, 449.
Rauch, J. H. The wear and tear of the medical profession, 45; yellow fever panics and useless quarantines, its limitation by temperature, 559.
Recent Progress. Dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 6; obstetrics, Green, C. M., 31; dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 59; food and drugs, Davenport, B. F., 103; gynecology, Davenport, F. H., 126; ophthalmology, Standish, M., 152; thoracic disease, Shattuck, F. C., 226; surgery, Burrell, H. L., and Cushing, H. W., 246, 283; anatomy, Dwight, T., 322; therapeutics, Williams, F. H., and Delano, S., 354, 381; orthopedic surgery, Bradford, E. H., and Lovett, R. W., 475; dermatology, Tilden, G. H., 500; diseases of children, Roach, T. M., 573; diseases of children, Rotch, T. M., 603; ophthalmology, Standish, M., 625.
Rectum. Foreign bodies in the rectum, Goodsall, D. H., 166.
Redard. Surgical intervention in tuberculous osteo-arthritis of the tibio-tarsal joints and of the feet in children, 184.
Reed & Carnrick's soluble food, 318.
Respiratory System. On thoracic deformity produced by adenoid growths in upper pharynx, Loewenberg, B., 46; reflex influences in the production of naso-pharyngeal catarrh, Buck, A. H., 87; report on progress in thoracic disease, Shattuck, F. C., 226; iodoform in hæmoptysis, 238; the comparative merits of tracheotomy and intubation in the treatment of croup, Gay, G. W., 311, 349; on the employment of inhalations in diseases of the bronchi and of the lungs, 344; permanent opening for empyema, Otis, E. O., 405; intubation in Germany, 415; the mortality of pneumonia, 485; the treatment of consumption by residence at high altitudes, 488; pneumonia mortality in Massachusetts almshouses, 540; spasm of the bronchial tubes, DaCosta, J. M., 628; acute lobar pneumonia in children, Townsend, C. W., 631.
Reynolds, E. A case of labor with threatening symptoms, 30, 34.
Rheumatism. Cascara sagrada in rheumatism, Goodwin, H. T., 22; on the value of salol in the treatment of acute rheumatism, 67; katalytic action of electricity: its practical value in rheumatic affections, Walton, G. L., 101.
Rib. Spontaneous fracture of a rib, Fisk, S. A., 325.
Richards, H. A case of polypoid angioma of the ear, 112; a case of false ozum membrane, 112.
Richardson, M. H. Case of supra-pubic cystotomy for tumor in the bladder, 158; observations on the surgical treatment of malignant growths, 193, 225; a new form for dressing in cases of empyema, 388; a case of ulcerative perforation of the transverse colon: laparotomy twelve hours later: death on the seventh day from septic peritonitis caused by fæcal extravasation, 432, 435; two cases of laparotomy for extra-uterine pregnancy, 549, 551; a case of intestinal obstruction, 629, 633.
Robinson, A. B. The question of relationship between lichen ruber (Hebra) and lichen planus (Wilson), 542.
Rockwell, F. W. Case of removal of both testicles for recurrent carcinoma, 332; case of nephro-lithiasis, complicated with hydronephrosis, in which lumbar nephrotomy was performed, 333.
Rohe, G. H. The electrolytic decomposition of organic tissues, 336.
Rollins, W. H. Progress in dentistry, 59.
Ross, G. Some forms of paralysis after typhoid fever, 361.
Rotch, T. M. A case of noma, 35; penetration of the heart by a slate pencil, 63; apparatus for the sterilization of infant food, 286; report on diseases of children, 603.
Saccharine considered as an antiseptic of the digestive passages. Paul, C., 186.
Sachs, B. Muscular dystrophies, 330, 581.
Salol. On the value of salol in the treatment of acute rheumatism, 67.
Sandwich Islands. Leprosy in the Sandwich Islands, 117.
Sanitation sociologically considered, 138.
Schools. Report on physical culture in schools, Adams, Z. B., Bradford, E. H., and Withington, C. F., 179.
Scientific spirit of the age, 210.
Scurvy in the Russian navy, Levitski, A. P., 618.
Sears, G. G. Two cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis, 131.
Seegen. Forms of diabetes mellitus, 563.
Seguin, E. C. The relation between trophic lesions and diseases of the nervous system, 363.
Seiler, C. Hypertrophy of the tonsils, 37.
Senn, N. The surgical treatment of intestinal obstruction, 295; the relation of micro-organisms to injuries and surgical diseases, 305.
Sepsis in Obstetrics. Dunsmore, G., 409.
Servia's sanitary system, 257.
Shattuck, F. C. Report on progress in thoracic disease, 226: pathological specimens, 634.
Shattuck, G. B. A case of hydatiform mole, 358.

Shattuck lecture, 13.
Shock. Cheever, D. W., 293, 313.
Shorthand as an aid to scientific study, 344.
Sibbet, R. L. A few words concerning our academy, 507.
Sinkler, W. Hereditary chorea, 368,
Smart, C. Water pollution, 557.
Smith, J. L. Sudden heart failure in diphtheria: its pathology and treatment, 480; case of infantile hemiplegia with marked spastic contracture and slight athetoid movements in the fingers, 509.
Social Life. The relation of social life to surgical disease, Agnew, D. H., 274.
Societies. American Academy of Medicine, 505, 535; American Association of Genito-urinary Surgeons, 331; American Dermatological Association, 335; American Medical Association, 416; American Neurological Association, 326, 365; American Ophthalmological Society, 88, 109; American Otological Society, 85, 111; American Public Health Association, 557, 584; American Surgical Association, 302; Association of Acting Assistant Surgeons of the U. S. Army, 516; Association of American Physicians, 359; British Medical Association, 203; Boston Medico-Psychological Society, 105; Boston Society for Medical Improvement, 107, 133, 251, 587, 434, 457, 530, 605; Boston Society for Medical Observation, 132, 405; Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons, 141, 288, 294, 314, 319; Essex North District Medical Society, 230; Genito-urinary Surgeons, Association of, 258; Massachusetts Medical Benevolent Society, 442; Massachusetts Medico-Legal Society, 65, 435; Massachusetts Medical Society, 14, 63, 386, 577, 608, 631, 640; New York Academy of Medicine, 14, 459, 480, 482, 609; New York County Medical Association, 507, 556, 634; New York Neurological Society, 581; New York State Medical Association, 405; Obstetrical Society of Boston, 34, 202, 504; Philadelphia County Medical Society, 158; Philadelphia German Medical Society, 37; Philadelphia, Pathological Society of, 436; Suffolk District Medical Society, 10, 81, 155, 207, 285, 551; Vermont State Medical Society, 408.
Specialists. On special service, 511; the relation between the general practitioner and the consultant or specialist, Buikley, L. D., 536.
Spina bifida. A case of spina bifida with web-like attachments on arms and legs, Stedman, J., 505.
Standish, M. Recent progress in ophthalmology, 152, 625.
Starr, M. A. Cerebral localization in reference to aphasia, 301.
Stedman, C. E. Two cases of appendicitis, one fatal, 241.
Stedman, J. A case of spina bifida with web-like attachments on arms and legs, 505.
Stein, A. W. Some points in the differential diagnosis of bladder and kidney affections, with demonstrations of the cystoscope and other instruments, 333.
Stelwagon, H. W. Dermatitis herpetiformis, with notes of three cases, 340; molluscum contagiosum: a preliminary report, 341.
Stephenson, F. B. Hebrew physicians in the middle ages, 176; antipyrine in sea-sickness, 371; puerile genitalia, 403.
Sternberg, G. M. Recent researches relative to the etiology of yellow fever, 365.
Stokes, W. Subdural abscess of the brain, 618.
Strophanthus. Experience with strophanthus in heart disease, Devine, W. 479; on the diuretic action of strophanthus, 488.
Strauss and Wurtz. On the action of gastric juice on the bacilli of tuberculosis, 185.
Strychnine in the treatment of delirium tremens, 510.
Stuart, F. W. Syphilis or tuberculosis? 575, 608.
Sturgis, F. R. The use of nitrate of silver in the local treatment of chronic urethral discharges, 331.
Sulphonal, 260.
Sumner, A. M. A case of trichinosis, 249.
Superstition dies hard, 642.
Surgery. Report on progress in surgery, Burrell, H. L., and Cushing, H. W., 246, 283; progress of surgery during the last half century, MacLeod, G. H. B., 204; a case of compound comminuted fracture of the skull, Harrington, F. B., 630, 633.
Sutphen, T. T. Puncture of the retina for detachment, 110.
Syphilis or Tuberculosis? Stuart, F. W., 575, 608.
Tait, L. Ovariotomy and marriage, 45.
Tait's Operation. A report of a case of Tait's operation for removal of ovaries, Brigham, L. M., 411.
Tassinari, V. Tobacco and bacteria, 465.
Tansley, J. O. An improved aural snare, 113.
Taylor, R. W. Lichen ruber as observed in America, and its differentiation from lichen planus, 342; dermatitis tuberosa, 343.
Teeth. Progress in dentistry, Rollins, W. H., 59.
Temperature. Inquiry into the influence of the temperature of the air on the death of infants from diarrhœal diseases, Meinert, 73.
Tetanus transmitted by inoculation, v. Eiselsberg, 261; a case of tetany, Jelly, 37.
Theobald, S. A case of double congenital iridiremia in a child whose mother exhibited a congenital coloboma of each iris, 109.
Therapeutic Nihilism. Clarke, M. D., 199.
Therapeutics. Report on progress in therapeutics, Williams, F. H., and Delano, S., 354, 381; therapeutics as judged by figures, 413.
Thomsen, W. H. Parenchymatous neuritis, 583.
Thoracic Disease. Report on progress in thoracic disease, Shattuck, F. C., 226.
Thorndike, W. H. Dislocation of hip of eleven months' standing: reduction by manipulation, 229.
Thymus Gland. The pathology of the thymus gland, Jacobi, A., 364.
Thyroid gland of the Dog, Welch, W. H., 364.
Tiffany, L. McL. Pregnancy and operative surgery: their mutual relations, 312.
Tilden, G. H. Report on progress in dermatology, 6; recent progress in dermatology, 500.
Townsend, C. W. Endemic cerebro-spinal meningitis, 52; acute lobar pneumonia in children, 631.
Tobacco and Bacteria. Tassinari, V., 465.
Tonsils. Hypertrophy of the tonsils, Seiler, C., 37.
Trichinosis. Sumner, A. M., 249.
Trumbull, J. Abscess of the brain, 142.
Tubal Pregnancy. Early rupture of a tubal gestation sac: operation, Zuetrer, J., 22.
Tuberculosis. A case of tuberculosis of the bladder, prostate, and kidneys, originating in tuberculous epididymitis, Watson, F. S., 4, 11; tuberculosis transmitted by the milk of a phthisical cow, Deunne, 69; lactic acid in tuberculous ulcerations and lupus, Rafin, 417; congress for the study of tuberculosis, 182; on the transmission of tuberculous infection by the mucous membranes, Cornil, 183; the dangers arising from the use of meat and milk from tuberculous animals, Nocard, 183; pulmonary tuberculosis in Styria, De Brun, 183; the persistence of the germs of tuberculosis in river water, Chantemesse and Wisal, 183; on the local and general means capable of arresting the extension of experimental tuberculosis, Arloing, 184; the bacterial associations of the tubercle bacillus, Babes, 184; glandular tuberculosis, Duret, 184; on pseudo-tuberculosis in men and animals, Cornil and Toupet, 184; surgical intervention in tuberculous osteo-arthritis of the tibio-tarsal joints and of the feet in children, Redard, 184; on the action of gastric juice on the bacilli of tuberculosis, Strauss and Wurz, 185; the spread of tuberculosis, 512; tubercular peritonitis apparently cured by laparotomy, Morrill, F. G., and Bradford, E. H., 534; syphilis or tuberculosis? Stuart, F. W., 575, 608.
Tuning fork. A new form of clinical tuning fork, Blake, C. J., 604, 606.
Typhlitis. The surgical management of typhlitis and perityphlitis, Bull, W. T., 309.
Typhoid Fever. An epidemic of typhoid fever due to infected milk, Harrington, C., 49; antisepsis in typhoid, 165; lineæ albicantes in typhoid fever, 190; the propriety of surgical interference in perforating typhoid ulcer, Mears, J. E., 310; geographical distribution of typhoid fever in the United States, Johnston, W. W., 360; the management of the stage of convalescence in typhoid fever, Hutchinson, J. H., 360; some forms of paralysis after typhoid fever, Ross, G., 361; the poison of typhoid fever, Edson, C., 609.
Tyson, J. The relation of albuminuria to life insurance, 362.
Urethra. The physics of the male urethra, Wagstaffe, W. W., 260.
Urinary System. A case of tuberculosis of the bladder, prostate, and kidneys, originating in tuberculous epididymitis, Watson, F. S., 4, 11; a foreign body in the female bladder, simulating stone, Green, C. M., 36; the detection of morphine in the urine as a means of diagnosis, Davenport, B. F., 124; pedunculated papilloma of the bladder: successful removal by perineal operation, Watson, F. S., 145; five cases of perineal section with exceptional complications, Porter, C. B., 148; case of supra-pubic cystotomy for tumor in the bladder, Richardson, M. H., 158; the physics of the male urethra, Wagstaffe, W. W., 260; the formation of an artificial urethra for prostatic obstruction, McGuire, H., 307; supra-pubic cystotomy, Packard, J. H., 308; nephrectomy, Willard, De F., 312; the relations of renal diseases to diseases of the nervous system, Edes, R. T., 328; pyæmia as a direct result of gonorrhœa, Park, R., 331; clinical observations on gonorrhœa, with special reference to etiology, duration, and treatment, Bryson, J. P., and Burnett, E. C., 331; retrojections in gonorrhœa, Palmer, E. R., 331; the use of nitrate of silver in the local treatment of chronic urethral discharges, Sturgis, F. R., 331; the diagnosis and treatment of chronic urethritis, with demonstrations of instruments, Oberländer, 331; the connection between masturbation and stricture of the urethra, Gross, S. W., 332; the curability of urethral stricture by electricity, Keyes, E. L., 332; notes upon the prognosis of organic stricture of the urethra, Fenwick, E. H., 332; demonstration of a perfected evacuator and an improvement in the method of removal of débris from the bladder, Otis, F. N., 333; résumé of an experience of seventeen years with the operation of dilating urethrotomy, Otis, F. N., 335; lithotapaxy in male children, Keegan, D. F., 333; operations on the kidney, Hingston, W. H., 333; case of nephro-lithiasis, complicated with hydronephrosis, in which lumbar nephrotomy was performed, Rockwell, F. W., 333; on the effects of rapid changes of altitude in an advanced case of interstitial nephritis, Cinsmore, G., 335; stone in the bladder in connection with splenic luchæmia, Williams, C., 335; perineal lithotapaxy, Harrison, R., 335; an unusual case of urethral calculus, Mudd, H. G., 335; the absolute and relative value of albumen and casts, and of renal inadequacy in the diagnosis and prognosis of diseases of the kidney, Edes, R. T., 361; the relation of albuminuria to life insurance, Tyson, J., 362; the cardiac changes in chronic Bright's disease, Loomis, A. L., 362; notes on albuminuria, Bisbee, A. B., 409; a case of rupture of the urethra, with some remarks upon the symptoms and treatment of that injury, White, J. W., 426; the treatment of incontinence of urine by Rhus aromatica, 464; on the diuretic action of strophanthus, 488; neurosis of the bladder, Blake, J. G., 505; a case of chronic Bright's disease, Baker, W. E., 572; parenchymatous neuritis, Thomson, W. H. 583.
Van Harlingen, A. Note of a case of filaria medinensis, 340.
Vaughan, V. C. Experimental studies on some points concerning the causation and treatment of the summer diarrhœa of infants, 14.
Vehicles for Iodide of Potash, 643.
Vickery, F. H. Vicarious menstruation, 604.
Volvulus. A case of volvulus, Warren, J. C., 380, 388.
V. Eiselsberg. Tetanus transmitted by inoculation, 261.
Wadsworth, O. F. Ophthalmoplegia externa, 207.
Wagstaffe, W. W. The physics of the male urethra, 260.
Walton, G. L. Katalytic action of electricity: its practical value in rheumatic affections, 101.
Warner, E. A case of appendicitis with autopsy, 404.
Warren, J. C. A case of volvulus, 380, 388; case of removal of the superior maxilla, 387.
Warren, J. C., and Richardson, M. H. Abdominal surgery at the Massachusetts General Hospital, 472.
Water. Water pollution, Smart, C., 557.
Water filter, 465.
Watson, F. S. A case of tuberculosis of the bladder, prostate, and kidneys originating in tuberculous epididymitis: autopsy, 4, 11; pedunculated papilloma of the bladder: successful removal by perineal operation, 145.

Wear and tear of the medical profession, Rauch, J. H., 45.
Webber, S. G. Cases of cerebral tumor, 277, 286.
Webster, D. Extraction of a partially absorbed calcareous lens, 111.
Welch, W. H. The thyroid gland of the dog, 364.
White, J. W. A case of rupture of the urethra, with some remarks upon the symptoms and treatment of that injury, 426.
Whitman, R. A case of appendicitis in a child, 551, 553.
Whitney, J. O. Postural treatment of constipation, 23.
Whooping Cough. The treatment of whooping cough, 393.
Willard, D. E. F. Nephrectomy, 312.
Williams, E. T. Postural treatment of constipation, 178.
Williams C. Stone in the bladder in connection with splenic luchæmia, 335.
Williams, F. H., and Delano, S. Report on progress in therapeutics, 354, 381.
Wilmarth, J. A remedy for sick headache, 71.
Wilson, J. C. Casual therapeutics in infectious diseases, 361; the causes and prevention of the opium habit and kindred affections, 505.
Wingate, U. O. B. Hallucinations of hearing, 359.
Winsor, F. A disputed case of accidental drowning, 65.
Wolff, M. Can the fœtus in utero be infected by the mother? 261.
Women and the study of medicine, 440.
Woodward, S. B. A case of purulent puerperal peritonitis successfully treated by incision and drainage, 33.
Wyman, S. E. Clinical notes of a case of perityphlitis: laparotomy thirty-two hours after the beginning of the attack: death on the thirty-eighth day, 126.
Yale Thermometric Bureau, 163.
Yellow Fever in Florida, 235; yellow fever, South and North, 288; recent researches relating to the etiology of yellow fever, Sternberg, G. M., 365; yellow fever panics and useless quarantines: its limitation by temperature, 559: yellow fever on the cruiser Boston, 564; problems of yellow fever epidemics, Cochran, J., 585.
Zuctrer, J. Early rupture of a tubal gestation sac: operation, 22.